Dictum on Women's Fashions by Paris Designers

PARIS, Oct. 9.—During the last two seasons the attention of designers has been concentrated on the skirt.

The fall openings prove, however, that once more the bodice is to come in for its share of attention. This naturally brings neckwear in general into a position of importance.

Generally speaking, collars are high and fit closely to the neck, but are cut away in front, revealing the throat. In other words, they are decollete chokers, so to speak. Such styles are usually made of some transparent fabric, such as lace, net or lingerie, and are boned at the back, at the sides and on each edge of the front opening. Many of Agnes' models had collars of this description, made of lace, with the front opening filled in with a two-inch wide band or strap of ribbon.

In Separate Waists

In blouses the collarless finish of the neck is conspicuous. Many of the newest blouses, notably for sport wear, are developed in jersey—wool or artificial silk—with rounded neckline finished with a band of the jersey, either plain or embroidered in metal threads.

Fits Closely to Throat

The collar which stands away from the throat is no longer smart. A few lamp-shade types, or, in other words, wide turn-over effects falling from a band which, being straight, stands slightly away from the neck at the top, are shown, notably by Martial & Armand; but, in general, the collar fitting closely to the throat is the note.

Dress Neck-Finishes

Many of the Premet models have the collar which stands away at the neck, but as in this case the collar is a continuation of the Watteau pleat, which ends in a bustle drapery, it has no bearing on the style, so far as separate collars are concerned.

Sleeves of Coats

Occasionally the three-quarter length sleeve, widely flared at the lower edge, is used in suit jackets. In suit coats,

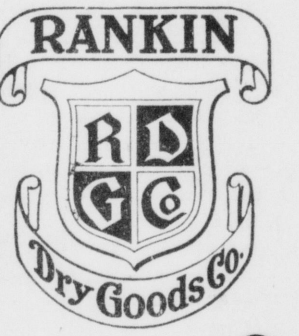

These are called the nun's sleeve or the pagoda sleeve.

The majority of the suit coats, however, have sleeves that are very large at the wrist. This provides for the use of the loose-wristed glove, which is a conspicuous note in Paris at present.

Diversity in Sleeves

Sleeves show great diversity. The dominant note is for the full-leg-of-mutton. This is used in dresses and in suit coats.

Your New Fall Suit-

Will It Be Distinctive or Commonplace in Appearance?

Deft touch and genius distinguish the artist from the dauber. The same deft touch and genius of a designer lift our suits out of the commonplace. They are distinctive.

Our display includes representative models of the new Autumn styles. The garments are made with the highest skill. The lines are beautiful. The added touches are smart and attractive. The fabrics are the choicest of the approved materials.

The selections have been most carefully made. We are particular in what we offer our patrons, that every model is "just right." We hope thus to merit your confidence.

Fall Suits $20 to $47.50

—The range of Broadcloths, Venetians, Velours, Whipcords, Gabardines, in all the colorings and trimmings would be hard indeed to describe.

—We therefore invite your inspection, and we shall consider it a privilege to show you, whether you are a buyer or are merely on a tour of inspection!

—All suits are altered free by an expert fitter.

"Stout" Suits $27.50, $40

—We have paid particular attention to the requirements of full figures, and are showing Fall models in "Stout" sizes. Serges, Broadcloths, and Venetians are the materials, in staple colorings.

—Three styles: for the full bust and small hip, for the narrow shoulder and large hip, and for the average large figure.

Handsome Coats

In a Wide Range of Cloths and Models

—We have seldom shown so great a range from which you may choose your new Fall coat. From $10.00 to $50.00—and all new, and the choicest of material and style at every price.

—New Coats for Children, and Misses, too.

Elegant Fur Fabrics

—Of the now famous "Salt's Fabrics," the standard of high quality, these elegant black Plushes and Sealettes will appeal to particular buyers.

—Our better ones are lined with "Skinner's" Satin, and the combination cannot be equaled. Purchased early, our prices are right.

—Styles are many, some belted, some fur trimmed, and all are gracefully flared, with 40 to 80 inch sweep. Three-quarter lengths, sailor collars buttoned high are correct for this season.

—Priced according to value, from $22.50 to $50.00.

PRESSED PLUSH, A FALL NOVELTY.

—Pressed Plush and Zibelines, showing attractive lights and shades in even stripes or rippled designs is a Fall novelty. We show many styles in these materials.

—Prices, $20.00 to $27.50.

Novelty Wool Materials

—For evening wraps, or street wear in lighter weights, Broadcloths and Velours are extensively shown, with Bolivia Cloth and some Chinchillas.

—Fall colorings can be had in these materials, such as Greens, Taupe, Burgundy, and Blues. These coats range in value from $20.00 to $47.50.

—Cravenetted English Tweeds, high Scotch novelties, rough in appearance, striking black and white zibelines, and heavy diagonals are other woollens which we show for Fall. These range in price from $10.00 to $30.00.

CHILDREN'S AND MISSES' COATS FOR FALL.

—A fine range of coats in all the Fall materials, and colors for little tots, sizes from 1 to 7 years, priced from $5.00 to $11.50.

—Sizes 8 to 14 years in attractive Cords and Plushes, as well as novelty mixtures, priced $5.00 to $22.50.

A Few Paris Fall Styles

Naming Furniture Woods About Lighting Fixtures

Furniture Woods

The importance of naming the wood of which a window display of furniture is made up is evidently not fully appreciated or there would be more of it done. Sometimes one may see a card on display of furniture saying "Genuine Mahogany," "Solid Mahogany" or something of that kind, but the thought in mind right now is that of properly labeling every piece of furniture displayed, or every group with the name of the wood.

The importance of this idea has been impressed by a realization of the curiosity of the general public, and especially the feminine half of the public, which does most of the shopping, in the matter of woods. Some of them are liable to recognize bird's-eye maple and to name a few species of wood from sight, but quite a percentage of the people who come into furniture stores, and who go by and view displays in the windows, are not able to distinguish between quartered oak and plain oak, or even to recognize the wood as oak under certain stains. Others cannot distinguish stained birch from mahogany, and so it goes.

Tagging Furniture

It would not hurt, but really prove of educational value, if every piece of furniture in the store were tagged with a tag on it setting forth these facts. If there is a bed room and if desired the design and the particular kind of finish. However it is naming the wood that is the subject at present, and after all that is one of the first essentials in educating people to understand and appreciate furniture.

If there is a parlor set, for example, that is made of birch stained and finished like mahogany, there should be a tag on it setting forth these facts. If there is a bed room set in figured gum this wood should be named on cards attached readily visible by anyone looking over the display. The same should apply to mahogany, Circassian, maple, oak, American walnut and in fact, one of the best rules that could be adopted would be that of naming and tagging every piece of furniture—that is naming the wood.

Home Lighting

Lighting fixtures are legion. There is the portable library or reading lamp, for example, embracing styles in innumerable variety from the metal pattern with its glass or silken shade, reproducing the most ornate of the period influences, to the simple standard in fumed oak, with shade of cretonne overlay. There is the boudoir lamp, the desk lamp, the night lamp—in styles of no less diversity. And, finally, there is the floor lamp, developed from the pattern once associated chiefly with the music room, with its mahogany, walnut, or enameled standard ranging from five feet to 70 inches in height.

Lamps, moreover, are fashionable. During recent years home lighting has been revolutionized. No home, however modest, in this day of universal public service utilities, remains long content to sacrifice light-comfort. Even in the remote districts, indeed, lighting equipment marks such a transition from the era of flickering odoriferous oil lamps that the poorly-lighted home is the exception. Furniture manufacturers have not been prodigal in capitalizing the opportunity. No better example could be cited than the attractive assortments of floor lamps recently brought out by producers of chamber furniture—lamps cleverly designed to match bed room furniture and thereby accelerate the fashion tendency.

The New Veilings

The salient characteristic of the new veilings featured for fall is the unparalleled richness of design. The vogue of high effects in millinery provides effective use for the veiling. The height of choice is exemplified in attractive all-over designs in dainty spray, leaf and scroll patterns. Small chenille dots are added to give smartness. The fad continues for fancy designs on fine, sheer meshes. An all-over silver pattern on a gray ground will have bright blue silk embroidered dots.

Veils Popular

A little earlier in the season a new veil called the "Nun's Coiffe" was launched and it has become more or less popular. It is a curious affair, made of plain Brussels net with lace edge, or of all-over applique lace. It measures about a yard and a half in length and a half yard in width and when arranged on the hat is attached to the back of the crown with the upper front edge pulled down over the brim under the chin. The lower loose edge hangs free to the waist when the veil is not drawn over the face. When the veil is down over the face, the lower edge is brought up over the crown and fastened at the back. This is one of those chic, ingenious arrangements so dear to the heart of the Parisienne. It is most becoming and when worn at an afternoon tea does not disturb the arrangement of either the hat or the hair. Moreover, there is none of the awkwardness of the tight veil. This veil should appeal to Americans for automobile wear, as it is practical for this purpose.

CHILDREN'S TOGS ATTRACTIVELY SIMPLE

Fashions For Misses Include Tailor Suits of Poiret
and Gabardine.

The unattractive child seen on the playground is the exception, not the rule. Fashion and comfort have applied themselves so that the juvenile garments are designed with a view to becomingness as well as strict attention to the general needs of the little tots as well as the flappers.

Due allowance is made for the lines of the growing figure and that there should be sufficient freedom for the demands of youthful energies. The question of selecting garb for the younger set is really a consequential one, for it is at the early period of femininity that the tastes are formed for either the artistic and simple or for tawdy and unharmonious inclinations.

The particular smart lines of the grown-ups' coats have been deftly transferred to children's coats. The flare effects, so prominent in large garments are also attained in the coats for the younger folks. The flare is produced by having the fullness start from the shoulder, or having the fullness in the lower part of the coat, which is cut in two sections. Sailor collars, cape collars and the low flat collars are used extensively. The sleeves are set in at the low shoulder line—the Bishop, and the flare effect sleeve are particularly adapted for girls' coats. Pockets in novel forms are used.

Simple tailored coats of serge, gabardines and worsteds, sometimes combined with silk, are featured. For girlie's best coat, taffeta, failles and gros de Londres are developed in novel designs.

A black and white checked coat, which has incorporated in it most of the dominant style features, is of black and white check material with full back and front and flat panel on the side. The skirt falls below this in full ripples. A short narrow belt confines the fullness in back and is fastened with a point to the panel by means of gray pearl buttons. Over the turned-back reverses, cape collar and cuffs of the check are white embroidered linen ones.

Fall fashions for misses include tailor suits of the new cloth fabrics, Poiret cord, gabardine, Palm Beach cloth and silk pongee; misses' daytime frocks, trotter types for morning service and afternoon wear of linens, voiles, tissues and the more formal modes for afternoon wear in chic youthful styles of faille silk; Georgette and taffeta.

Not the least important are the new sport models, the best of which is the Norfolk style with broad plaits, and peplum which slightly ripples over the hips. The skirts are usually full and devoid of trimming.

The smock waist of straight, loose cut, closely following the smocks of Paris artists, are much favored. White handkerchief linen is likeable for blouses. Stripes in varying widths and color combinations are sought for by the discriminating buyer.

Skirts of basket weave, jersey, pique and striped gabardines are very "much of the season."

Dresses made entirely of ribbon, mounted on net or chiffon, are a leading factor for party dresses. A dress of white net ruffled with net flounces bound in pale blue had a deep yoke and girdle of the blue. The low neck waist and sleeves were corded with the blue and had a deep collar effect of lace in the back.

A youthful frock has flounces and flounces of filmy chiffon, varying in tone, each one bound in a narrow bebe ribbon of a little deeper tone, are deepest pink for the lowest flounce, then a succession of orchid pink and then pale pink. The ruffles are introduced on the sleeves and also on the waist.

Season's Hats Delightfully Demure, Trimmings Sparse

Don't buy a hat because it looks good on some other woman. There certainly is no law against your wearing a becoming hat, and no excuse, either, especially this season, when there is such a multitude of shapes to choose from.

When selecting a hat arrange your hair carefully in the manner in which you intend to wear it, and after the hat is yours don't hurry, but take a few extra moments to adjust it at the right angle. At the final touch rearrange your hair in front and at the sides and catch up the loose ends of hair in the back.

Chic Styles

The chic originality of this season's smart hats is portrayed in all the favorite shapes in most novel effects and combinations. Hats set well up on the head and have not forgotten the inclination to slant jauntily over the eye. The brims assume many bizarre forms. Trimmings are used sparsely, but ingeniously.

Hats ascend to unknown heights. The high effect may be attained by ribbon bows, feather fancies, high draped effects or turn-up brims.

Taffeta, velvet and faille ribbons figure in such crops of bows—beaded motifs, small ostrich tips, and pom-poms, buckles, embroidered motifs and fancy pins are all listed for voguish millinery trimmings.

Small Hats

The season's small hats are delightfully demure, when properly worn; many of them are trimmed high in the back, mostly with ribbon. The large hats are scarcely trimmed at all; a band of gros grain ribbon around the crown, a pleated rosette at the back, or a large buckle in front is usually the extent of the trimming. The large sailor of black, glossy braid with a thin, cobwebby lace veil of black or white is much in evidence.

GIRLS SHOULD PROVIDE SELVES WITH FROCKS

The school-girl should, by all means, provide herself with one or two simple serge frocks, cut on the new, straight lines. A coat-frock, developed in serge, gabardine, a Poiret twill, or one of the novel velours, will serve for early fall street wear. These coat dresses are cut in a number of ways, one of the most attractive being on the redingote order, with semi-fitted basque and full, gathered overskirt, opening in the front over a satin or self-material underskirt. The side or box-pleated serge, falling straight from a deep shoulder yoke, belted or sashed loosely, is another effective model. These dresses take the place of the regulation tailored skirt and coat; a bit later in the season, when there is a suggestion of frost in the air, one of the smart little shoulder capes, or a chic short jacket of the same material, may be added to the coat dress; or it may be completed by one of the long, loose velour top coats, now so fashionable.

For Class Room

For class-room wear, the one-piece serge or gabardine frock, freshened by sheer Georgette or lawn collar and cuff sets, very straight and trim, and loosely belted, is an ideal design. One good model is made of a hand-finish men's-wear serge, with collar, cuffs and belt of the same material, over which are worn collar and cuffs of lawn. The buttons are of bone. This is a model which may easily be made at home by the school-girl herself, as there is very little fitting necessary.

Simplicity

Simplicity dominates the hats. Hemp and Milan ribbon or leather trimmed are offered in infinite variety.

In the color race are African brown, Bordeaux blue, various shades of gray, pastel shades, azure, a bluish green—Mastic and Shantung, and, it goes without saying, black and white.

Larger than the majority of hats seen is a black with a round crown, whose sole trimming is a flat white bird directly in front. The broad rim rolled on the side has upper facing of white taffeta.

A mist gray Neapolitan shape, trimmed with three distinct clusters nestling in gray foliage, had the narrow brim faced with self-toned gray.

A gem of a hat is of purple. The crown is high and square with a narrow straight brim.

The Very Newest Coiffure
Modes for Dress-Up Week

Another Paris Note

Women of fashion are, today, greatly interested in the "two material" dresses. Paris has sanctioned them and put forth some of her best efforts in the fashioning of new versions of them for the coming season.

No, it is not only the economical woman with an eye to making over her last winter's dress who looks with approval on this style. To be sure, she may take advantage of it, for this fashion holds great possibilities for her; but, needless to say, it was not originally planned for her.

Combinations of materials are used in dresses of widely different character; quite as often in the one-piece frock for street as in the dress required for more formal wear. Of the first type is the smart frock of cloth illustrated here. There is a suggestion of the military influence in this dress, which accounts for a part of its charm, as things military are still a source of inspiration.

Perhaps it is the orderly row of buttons placed straight down the front, perhaps it is the four pockets, or yet it may be the shoulder collar, or all of these together, that gives the soldierly tinge to this dress. One can readily imagine the design developed in satin and serge, velvet and cloth, velvet and satin, or any one of these materials in two tones. A light and a dark shade of gray silk have been used very successfully by the Parisian designers in such a dress as this. They have even combined two different colors, such as tan and brown, dark green and gray, and mahogany and gray. But the amateur should beware of combining two colors unless they are in perfect harmony, for the result may be vastly different from what the hands of an experienced combiner of colors would produce.

Dress for Formal Wear

In dresses for formal wear, one sees other combinations. A white Georgette crepe blouse in Russian style was combined with a black satin skirt and the blouse was edged with a wide band of black satin. There was a shoulder cape of white Georgette edged with fur, which trimming also finished the long sleeves. Another dress seen had a blouse of Copenhagen blue chiffon, also in Russian style, worn over a skirt of blue velvet the same shade. Fur edged the blouse.

Another detail of fashion which is making a strong appeal to the well-dressed woman is the use of colored embroidery as a dress trimming. An example is shown on the illustration here of a one-piece dress with cart-ridge belt. Many of these dresses are seen in dark blue or black serge or satin with gray wool embroidery. In some, the hem of the skirt is further decorated with a wool fringe matching the embroidery and hanging from the lower edge. Other embroidery designs are carried out in Bulgarian colors in wool or silk, or in steel thread and also in gold thread. The two latter are especially effective on dark green, navy blue or black.

Fancy Handbags

A fashionable woman does not consider her costume complete today without a dainty fancy handbag, which she dangles from a long ribbon or cord. Sometimes it takes the form of the old-fashioned reticule grand-mother used to wear hanging from her belt. In this instance, the bag is almost made from the same material as the dress. But there are numerous other forms and shapes of this important accessory, which, if it does not exactly match the costume should in any event, harmonize with it. Some very attractive ones are of black velvet with steel beads or of moire with colored beads, and some fluffy little creations are entirely of ruffles or ribbon.

Dressing the Hair

To arrange the hair becomingly this season is not such a vexing problem after all, because fashion dictates that the best arrangement is the one which is the most becoming.

The modes for arranging the hair are so varied that they may be worn any way that suits the contour of the face. The woman who prides herself on her appearance will do well to devote an extra hour or two to try one or two of the new modes to discover which one suits her best. She must study her profile and her features carefully—best to use a triple mirror and a hand glass for this purpose.

If one's face is long and narrow a medium coiffure will make the face look fuller. If the face is stout and round, one can modify the new modes so as to bring out the acme of beauty and charm.

Brush Vigorously

To give the hair the sleek appearance, so much desired, the hair should be given a vigorous brushing. Increased circulation and live appearance is given the hair by rubbing the fingers vigorously into the scalp.

There is something about the definition of "coiffure" which leaves a great deal to be implied. The dictionary defines "coiffure" as an arrangement or dressing of the hair.

"The hair has been called the greatest natural adornment of the body." Since earliest times fashion has played audaciously with feminine tresses. Says the writer of Solomon's Song of the princess' daughter, "Thine head upon thee is carmel, and the hair of thine head like purple; the king is held in the gallery."

Several inches of height may be given to a coiffure by rolling the hair under and then drawing out the ends into little curls. The hair is kept naturally close, but not tight, and falls gracefully low over the forehead and ears, waved just enough to take out its straightness.

Braided effects are also good, and the time may not be far distant when the coronet braid will be welcomed back again.

One need not discard the low hair-dressing arrangement, for it is so universally becoming as to be never quite out of fashion. One pin or more may catch the softly coiled psyche knot. The hair is brushed back from the face, the back hair then twisted and drawn into a cross-over knot, is caught by a pin at both sides of the head, and then the ends are crossed and turned over.

New Arrangements

The new hairpins come in especially fetching designs, which give the right emphasis to the coil of hair. Jet continues popular and is equally used in dark or blond locks.

Various composition materials with Oriental and semi-precious jewels are displayed. High pompadour roll combs are just what their name signifies them to be.

Butterfly designs in enamel with jewels or of jet and rhinestone are much admired. Shell combs mounted with balls of brilliants or with alternate balls of sapphires and emeralds, are new notes in hair adornment.

Barrettes are the logical accompaniment to the hair drawn up in back, and there is a greater variety of choice than ever before of all sorts and kinds. For evening wear platinum barrettes, aglitter with rhinestones are a good choice.

Mandarin combs and combs in peacock feather design are used for coiffure decorations.

ONLY THREE MORE DAYS OF THE REGISTER'S GREAT CONTEST

Now Is the Last Chance For Friends of Contestants to Help Their Favorite to Win These Grand Prizes

$1200 Studebaker Six, $1200 in Cash Prizes To Be Awarded Saturday, 8 p.m.

Contestants Enter Homestretch In the Great Race For Votes

The Race Is a Close One and Only the Final Count Can Decide the Winners-

Three more days and the Register's Contest will end. Contestants are urged to get in their subscriptions as early as possible. Don't put off until the last day anything that can be done before.

The polls will close at 8 o'clock Saturday night and the judges will then make the final count of votes to determine the winners.

The subscriptions are coming in rapidly and no one can help you keep pace except yourself and your friends.

Encourage Your Friends

Tell all of your friends that you need their assistance this week in order to assure you of winning one of the Register's prizes.

Don't let them put you off—tell them that the contest closes in three more days.

Never get discouraged, no matter where you stand on the list. Those who look more like winners to you than yourself at the present time may have exhausted their resources.

You may be at the top or near top. Even if you are, you will have to keep hard at work to hold your lead. You are neck and neck with your competitors.

The winners next Saturday night are going to be those who "seek roads to conquer" after they have canvassed their home territory.

You can keep going over the same territory and get a few more subscriptions out of it even after you imagine that you have them all.

Some folks are slow about making up their minds about subscribing as well as about other things.

They may have been short of money when you called first.

Go back and see them again—the most unpromising "prospect" often will develop into a staunch supporter.

Now Candidates, Attention

We want no misunderstandings, no bitter disappointments, no sore spots.

Therefore we warn you, one and all, that the published vote is not to be relied upon. The Contest manager, nor the Register management, nor anybody else has any knowledge of or control over the number of votes held in reserve. Any one of the candidates may have all kinds and numbers of subscriptions in reserve.

Some may be making a still hunt with the knowledge, consent and hearty co-operation of their friends and supporters, so the only rational, logical and safe course for any candidate to pursue, is to get all the business possible, to rake the field with a fine-tooth comb, and get every vote to be had.

No candidate should be frightened, discouraged or encouraged by any stories he or she may hear of what this, that or the other candidate may have said or done. Stories of this kind are and will be afloat. They may or may not be true. Bluff may be attempted, stampedes tried and all manner of tricks may be resorted to. Neither the Register nor the Contest manager can control these things; they depend upon the character and temperament of the candidates.

A Clean, Fair Race

The Contest manager, speaking from his knowledge of contests in general, has no hesitancy in saying that this contest has been throughout an unusually fair one. Contestants have all refrained from the little tricks that sometimes develop such as, for instance, as turning in a new subscription, one that really should be counted as old.

There has scarcely been heard a murmur of a single unfair act on the part of any contestant and the Register is extremely anxious that it may continue so up to the close.

The last three days of the campaign can in many cases make you either a winner or a loser. It rests largely with the individual contestant which it shall be.

Contest Aphorisms

It's now or never with you, contestants. Remember your friends expect you to win.

Better far go down to defeat doing your best, than to suffer afterward the lashings of your conscience for lack of effort.

Look like a winner. Meet every prospective subscriber with a cheerful smile.

Confidence is one of the prime elements in influencing others. If you have no confidence in yourself, you can hardly expect others to have.

Enthusiasm is a large factor in enlisting support. Your own enthusiasm will enthrall others in your behalf.

Be resolute in your purpose to win and you will inspire confidence in those you would have aid you.

There is nothing that tends more toward success than expectancy of success.

It is unfair to those who have favored you, for you to do less than your best to the end of the race.

DRESS-UP WEEK

Smart Fall and Winter Coat

Very smart, loose-fitting Fall and Winter model of Bolivia cloth. Collar, cuffs and bottom of coat trimmed with velvet and edged with narrow fur. This model is very appropriate for street and afternoon, and particularly for evening wear and will be seen quite often on very well dressed women. Garment is lined with novelty silk, flower and striped. Plain silk of all light shade colors is very suitable.

Fall's Newest Evening Frock

Very smart evening or dancing frock made of the new soire silk with boufant skirt, the new crinoline effect. Corded of same material with rosebuds. The bodice of the dress is trimmed with silver spangles, and the sleeves are of maline edged with narrow velvet ribbon.

Chic Fall Tailored Suit

Original model of novel cut developed in Bolivia cloth, also suitable for broadcloth or wool velour. Jacket is cut in the Russian type with standing collar and the novel raglan sleeve. The jacket is trimmed with squirrel fur. The skirt is on circular type and gathered at the waist band. This model is very suitable for the new pastel colors, also in blue and black.

The "Dress Up" Idea Dates Back to the First Fig Leaf of Mother Eve

BY C. JULIAN KADAU

Fashion probably dates back to Mother Eve. At least it would be reasonable to assume, judging from the hold dress has always had upon femininity, that the apple story was merely a ruse on her part in order that she might have an excuse to decorate her body with something more than nature had provided.

As far back as science can discover the savage craved bodily decorations next to having his appetite satisfied. His dress consisted of dried leaves—or sometimes skins in their crude state. Today we are wearing the same materials—perfected and woven into fabrics of style and fashionable smartness.

Carlyle's Version of Dress

Carlyle wrote a book on the "Spirit of Clothes." His "Sartor Resartus" has been the amazement of writers of all time. How could anyone write a whole book on the dry subject of clothes? they wondered. But in it he said some remarkable things. Among them the following:

"Neither in tailoring nor in legislating does man proceed by mere accident, but the hand is ever guided on by mysterious operations of the mind. His body and the cloth are the site and materials, whereon and whereby his beautiful edifice of a person is to be built."

Later, evidently referring to the idiosyncrazies of fashion and the present hold of dress on modern civilization, he remarks: "Let any cause and effect philosopher explain not why I wear such and such a garment—but even why I am here to wear and obey anything."

Today

That dress increases our social and business standing is today admitted by all people of judgment and that it likewise has much to do with our prosperity is conceded by many. The only man who draws a big salary for wearing shabby clothes is Charles Chaplin.

Neat dressing is a habit. The man or woman who is untidy in dress is very likely to be untidy in mind, even slovenly. Business men who employ many people admit that their judgments are largely formed by the clothes applicants wear, and that the earning power of a man can quickly be gauged by his wearing apparel. The ill-dressed man has little chance in business. The untidy woman has none at all, either in business or in social life.

The "Dress Up" Idea

The "Dress Up" idea was originated in America, strangely enough. I say strangely because America is yet in the habit of looking to Paris and London for fashion reflections and modes. That it should in view of this inaugurate a national "Dress Up" week seems unusual.

The idea is not more than a few years old, yet this very week there are thousands of merchants all over the land who are combining their efforts and co-operating that "Dress Up" week might become a national success and ultimately an international event. The cry that men and women dress better is bearing fruit on a wide scale, as all worthy objects do; and the business man is responsible.

From the Local Standpoint

This special "Dress Up" week issue is a striking example of what the merchants locally think of the idea. If you will visit their stores this week you will find them brimful and teaming over with enthusiasm about their "preparedness" — their months of preparation in selecting careful stocks of Fall goods so that Santa Ana and nearby folk might dress up along with the rest of America.

How to Quickly Discover Whether a Man Is 100 per cent Carefull Dressed

(From the Chicago Apparel Gazette)
Comparatively few men, perhaps, are 100 per cent carefully dressed; that is, dressed in a manner that shows care and attention in every detail from head to foot.

The accompanying illustration represents the 100 per cent carefully dressed man. He has dressed with 100 per cent care and attention to all the little details that go to make up the smartly dressed man.

Even a casual observation will disclose the fact that his cravat is carefully tied, his collar is spotless, his trousers are pressed, the pockets of his coat are not bulged and sagged with unnecessary burdens, his shoes are not run down at the heels, his hat is clean, there are no little defects in his attire. According to the latest "Carefully Dressed Percentage Table," he would register 100 per cent.

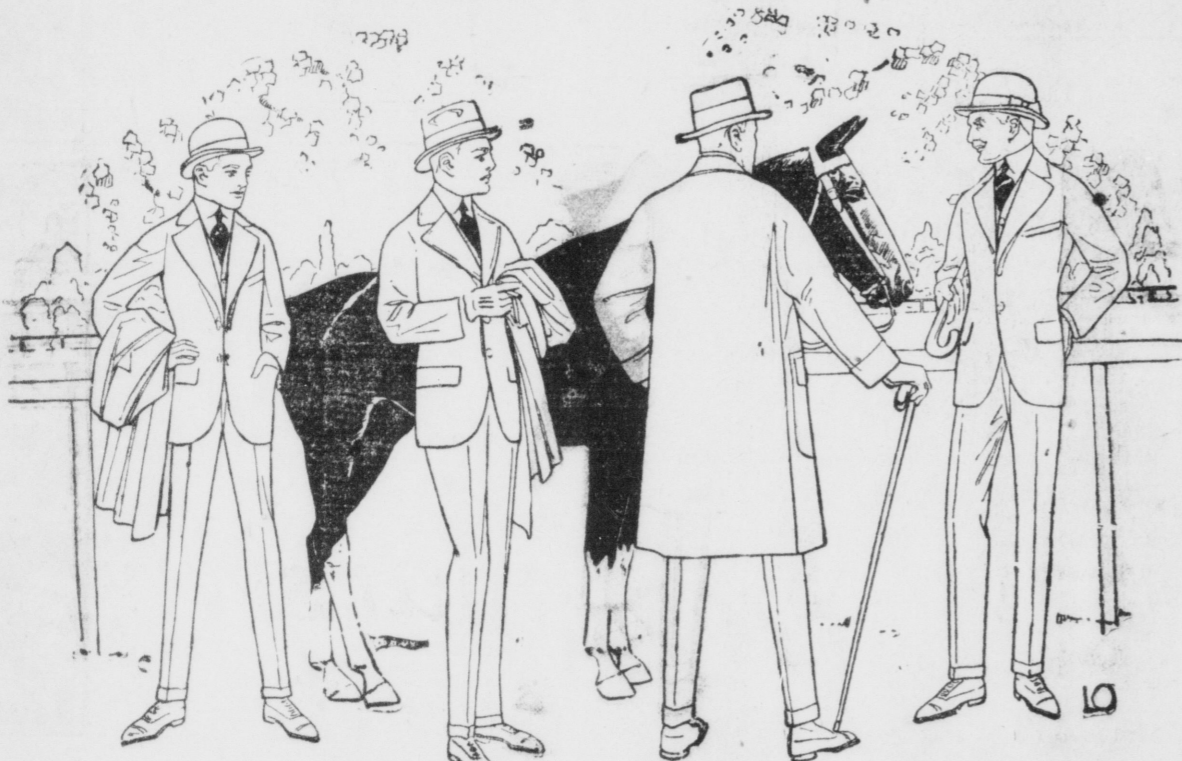

Now, you probably won't find very many men who will quite come up to this mark at all times, so, during Fall Dress Up Week you might find it advisable and perhaps quite profitable to take an accounting of ourselves and determine from this percentage scale just how closely we come to being 100 per cent carefully dressed, deducting from 100, as per the scale below, the specified percentage for the little details of dress in which we are careless or indifferent.

Percentage Table Marks of the Untidy Dresser

Deduct Per cent	For
10	Badly Tied Cravat—unsightly knot, separated ends, loose scarf pin.
15	Soiled Collar—finger prints, coat collar smudges, incorrect size.
10	Bulging Coat Pockets—sagging from contents, caught-up flaps, etc.
15	Unpressed Trousers—showing wrinkles, baggy knees, out of shape.
10	Unshined Shoes—dull and dusty loosely laced, run-down heels.
5	Untidy Cuffs—soiled or unbuttoned, or too long, or too short.
10	Carelessly Adjusted Suspenders—allowing trousers to drop down too low and bag and sag.
10	Hat Not Brushed—dented-in crown (stiff), carelessly creased crown (soft).
15	Unshaven Face and Untrimmed Hair—Unkept beard, scraggy hair, drooping mustache.

Dye Situation Apparently Overcome by American Manufacturers

America this year is thrown upon its own resources to define the modes of men's attire. No longer can it turn to London for its styles, no longer can the designers in America shirk their duties and wait for "what's what" from London. London is busy in other directions. They cannot waste their efforts on such simple things as men's dress—though in peace times it is an important matter to them.

There are designers in America who are masters of their craft, but they never have shown us what they could do until this season.

Dye Situation

Perhaps the biggest problem that clothiers had to face this fall was the dye situation. A great many were foresighted enough to gather tremendous supplies as soon as the war started. Others have perfected their dyes in such a way that they can positively guarantee them to be lasting.

Dress Up Season

Browns, blues and greens are popular. It is a peculiar thing, but everything that is scarce is always in demand. Browns and blues are very hard to procure and they are expensive. Perhaps for those reasons more than any other they are in such demand. Browns are to be worn in very dark shades and are in most instances shown without any patterns.

Stripes no doubt there will be many, but not so many as to make them look monotonous. A few years ago there was a craze for stripes. Everybody wore them; everywhere you went you saw them; every tailor, every clothier showed them at about every price. But there were few variations—they were mostly all the same and the sum and substance of the whole thing was that stripes grew very tiresome to the eye. Stripes are plentiful, but they are not so conspicuous this fall. Most of those that have been created thus far are unusually clever and distinctive and will no doubt appeal to the fastidious dresser.

Green Popular

Greens put in a strong bid for popularity. There have been some unusually striking green woven in both plain shades and mixtures. They are sure of winning the approval of the ultra-fashionable who want something a bit different than the rank and file are wearing. There is no end of different variations, and it won't be long until we see men who said they would never be seen in a green suit wearing them.

Since American designers can no longer depend on imports of the more expensive materials from France and England, American fabric manufacturers have risen to the occasion, and produced materials which rival, in originality and beauty, anything ever imported.

Out-of-door living and popular sports have necessitated new materials, which will stand all kinds of weather, and will look smart for town as well as country wear. Motor coats, for instance, must now be not only weatherproof and dustproof, but distinctive and becoming as well. To meet this need, there is Pontine, resembling morocco leather on one side, and having a satin surface, in a contrasting color, for the lining side.

Street dresses for early fall will be of light weight and heavy blue serge or gabardine combined with satin-faced silk in navy blue, black and light brown. Wool embroidery, beads and silk embroidery are combined in oriental designs and colorings for trimming these frocks.

Satin Returns

Satin is to return to its own, after the long popularity of dull-finished silks, and it will be used not only for street dresses, in shades of blue, blue-green and brown and tan, but also for evening wraps in sapphire-blue, emerald-green, turquoise and gold. These soft wraps, made warm by interlining, are often lined with flowered or gayly figured Georgette crepe, silk crepe or chiffon.

The tailored suits will not show many distinctly new fabrics. Serge, poplin, cheviot and diagonal serge, those serviceable standbys, will be the favorites. Wool-velour in plain colors and checks, in corduroy weaves and diagonal stripes will be used for the more expensive suits, while there is a prophecy from Paris that dressy afternoon suits will have skirts of light-colored broadcloth, with blouses of chiffon to match, and coats of velvet, in a darker shade of the same color.

For little folks there is nothing more serviceable than the new mohair weaves, for they shed dust and come in a bewildering assortment of colors, checks and stripes adaptable to youthful styles.

CORRECT THINGS IN GENT'S FURNISHINGS

Neckwear and shirt silks come largely from France, China and Japan. American silk manufacturers are using to a great extent American logwood dyes in the cheaper grades of silks, and while these dyes are not enduring enough for use in clothing and woolen fabrics, they are lasting enough to serve the life of an ordinary tie of the less expensive mercerized shirt silks.

So for this season, at least, you are provided for because all of these silk fabrics are sufficient to the popular needs of both coloring display and durability.

Shirts

In madras, chevrot and percale shirts two-tone effects are the most widely shown, and in these the patterns are of wide stripes on white foundation. Black stripes from one-quarter to a full inch in width are shown and recommended because black is one color this year that is wholly dependable. For color ranges in these patterns, blues, garnet, purples, browns, tans and greens are also shown.

Solid tones are slowly receding in popularity; probably because the shirt makers have eschewed these as too prodigal in the consumption of any one tone. Silk shirts also run to wide stripes though they are more variegated in color blending. All-over embroidery schemes are also popular and some of these show the embroidered effect as a self-tone on the foundation color with contrasting, interspersing stripes of various widths.

Some Scotch patterns in flannel shirts are also shown and are good for California evenings, early morning, etc., but do not commend themselves for general wear.

Neckwear

In neckwear, large self-tone, blocks are extremely fashionable, especially in the darker and richer tones such as blue, green, purple, helio, lavender, garnet, amethyst, wine color and autumn browns.

Large floral effects of two contrasting shades are also clever. In these such combinations as red and green, gray and green, brown and red, blue and red, blue and yellow and kindred combinations are most widely shown.

Diagonal duo-tone and self-tone stripes are also favored in practically the same shades as the large block patterns referred to above. Polka dots and small conventional patterns are almost entirely confined to the bat-wing bow ties and Windsor ties.

Most of the ties for fall wear are shown in heavy silk and satin fabrics, the former predominating. These are most popular in grays, tans and pastel shades, and right along with these are the crepe effects, also in solid and pastel effects of self-patterns.

Gloves

The stiffening of prices on hides and skins will undoubtedly lead many to the fabric gloves this fall. For natural reasons, too, these recommend themselves as they are warmer and more economically cleaned. Chamois, knitted fabrics, and silks are most shown in these sorts and the most favored shades are champagne, putty, sand color, various gray tones and a few extreme effects in Burgundy, garnet and helio. Some of these are in plain stitching and plain backs, others in black stitching and backs and a few in contrasting trimming effects of harmonizing shades or self-tones. In the hide gloves, buck, kid, mocha, suede and reindeer are popular. The shades are black, tan, gray, mahogany, champagne, mustard, oxblood and dark green.

Hosiery

In popular priced lines, the hosiery runs chiefly toward solid effects or moderate clockings. Besides the staple shades of tan, gray, blue, black and white, there are few departures.

White with black clockings and white with other shades for embroidery schemes are being displayed with a strength that indicates a certain demand. Whites with polka dots and hair line stripes are also launched.

Other hosiery styles are the small, twotoned, flaky effects. These are shown in about the same shades mentioned above in the solid tones. In these black is chiefly the foundation color and the flakes are brought out in the other mentioned shades.

Striped hosiery is not so conspicuously shown this season except in the higher priced lines, and these run mostly toward the accordion weaves.

Underwear

So great is the variety of ideas that no certain effect can be picked out as more fashionable than the others. In fact, underwear does not follow the fashions—it makes its appeal to personal taste and indulgence. Name your price and your favorite brand to your dealer and he will show you enough patterns and color effects to meet your fastidiousness.

Pajamas

What is stated above regarding underwear fashions also holds good on pajamas. Solid tones, small floral and conventional patterns and stripes of every degree of latitude are shown in the entire gamut of color treatments.

Two New Yorkers Prove That Dressing Up Makes World of Difference in Hotels

A DRESS UP TEST

Bruce Barton, editor of Every Week, in a recent editorial in that publication says:

"Two men whom I know tried this experiment: They dressed themselves in their best clothes and went to a prominent New York hotel for dinner. The head waiter received them deferentially; the waiter hurried to take their order; they received the very best of the hotel afforded in food and service. And as they passed out the captain helped them on with their coats and expressed the hope that they would come again.

"A few nights later they put on shabby clothes, old shoes, tattered shirts and neckties, and went back to the same dining room. Their entrance created a mild sensation. Nobody came forward to show them to a table. They were left to find a place for themselves. The waiter seemed oblivious of their presence. After they had waited fifteen or twenty minutes he came up sulkily, threw a menu card in front of them, and took their order, eyeing them suspiciously all the while.

"When they came to pay their checks, and he saw that they had real money, his manner changed a little, but not much.

"From first to last their experience was thoroughly unpleasant.

"They were the same men who had been there a few nights before. Morally, financially, humanly, there had been no change in them. But nobody recognized them as the same men.

"Neither their character nor their money could gain the respect that had been eagerly accorded them because of their good clothes."

'Dress-Up' Style Summary of Shoes For Fall, Winter

The following summary of shoe styles for fall and winter, 1916-17, is published at the request of several of our readers.

All materials suitable for footwear must be used in order to produce necessary volume of shoes to supply actual needs.

Kid and buck, in order, will be the favored materials in high style, high grade, high priced footwear.

Cloth will be extensively used in high-grade, as well as in medium and in popular-priced shoes.

Cloth must be used in order to produce a standard quality shoe at prices which the majority of consumers can afford to pay.

Skirts will range from 6 to 8 or 9 inches from the ground with tendency toward 6 inches as popular height.

Button pattern boots in all materials will be the high style to be worn with all garments under 7½ or 8 inches from the ground.

Lace pattern boots, principally in kid and buck, will be favored for sportwear, for walking purposes and in high novelties to be worn with garments exceeding 7½ or 8 inches from the ground.

Garment colors for fall run toward the darker shades. Likewise, subdued colors will be employed in shoe toppings, with grays and castors leading.

In men's footwear for fall, button boots with colored toppings of cloth or leather are the new style note.

Significance of "Dress-Up"

BY SHERLEY HUNTER
In Chicago Apparel Gazette

Universal socialism will never become a reality—ambition will never stop stamping her spur boots—there will always be somebody who wants to look better than someone else does in her, or his, eyes.

Beau Brummel was aped and feted until after he fell out with the Prince of Wales (afterward George IV).

In the vanguard posts of civilization the sky pilot and boiled shirt are hooted until fair woman comes.

The varsity graduate fledgling, standing tiptoes on the threshold of life, peers at the horizon and waits to step into the chair car on the Fame limited—he wants ease, social honors, a shiny new desk and money where-with to procure good habiliments and appointments that will be envied by others.

It is as natural for the human heart to want to look as well, or better, than others as it is for the birds to sing or the flowers to bloom. And here is the right fulcrum for Dress Up ideas aplenty.

To be clothed in a right mind is the result of clothing oneself in the right clothes—after work.

A Psychology of Duds

There is a psychology of duds, the act of dressing and undressing, that tends to stop brooding. "A fellow should dress up to eat as though expecting guests"—the man who said that was dressed up. He went down in the Lusitania just after the dinner hour.

Dental floss and a clean collar are dressing up as well as the pulling on of new trousers—people who believe in these things believe in the Dress Up idea.

Some of the best gymnasts and physical culture directors are immaculate dresser—they don't believe in staying dressed up but in getting dirty with hard work and then dressing up—not staying unclean. This is another thought started sparking by Elbert Hubbard in his little talk on William Muldoon.

Unrest is caused by vitalized beings who have pride in the advancement of civilization—and pride means better appearance, whether it be clothes, home or the way a duty is performed—it means being thought well of by others, looked up to as an example. The men who strive to lead us to better things care for their appearance and the appointments that are thought of with them.

Even artists nowadays are natty neat and can sit in a close room with out attracting the attention of others.

It is said often that a man, as his salary is increased, lives up to its boundaries—moves into a larger home, increases the horsepower of his machine—he must properly reflect the status of his position. Appearance counts—the theory of Dress Up.

From London and Paris, in the past, have come our fashions—the ideas for Dressing Up anew. Yet the English and French are by no means proving effeminate in the present terrible conflict.

Our Well-Dressed Secretary

Secretary Lensing is no less efficient because he gives more attention to his appearance than William Jennings Bryan did.

A man can be spick and up to the regulator without having to wear pink ink insertion on his unseen apparel; in fact, America's alert men, just as the big men in all nations, believe in looking well their part. Even savages have a vanity strain.

How does it make you feel to hear someone say, "Where did you resurrect that hat?"

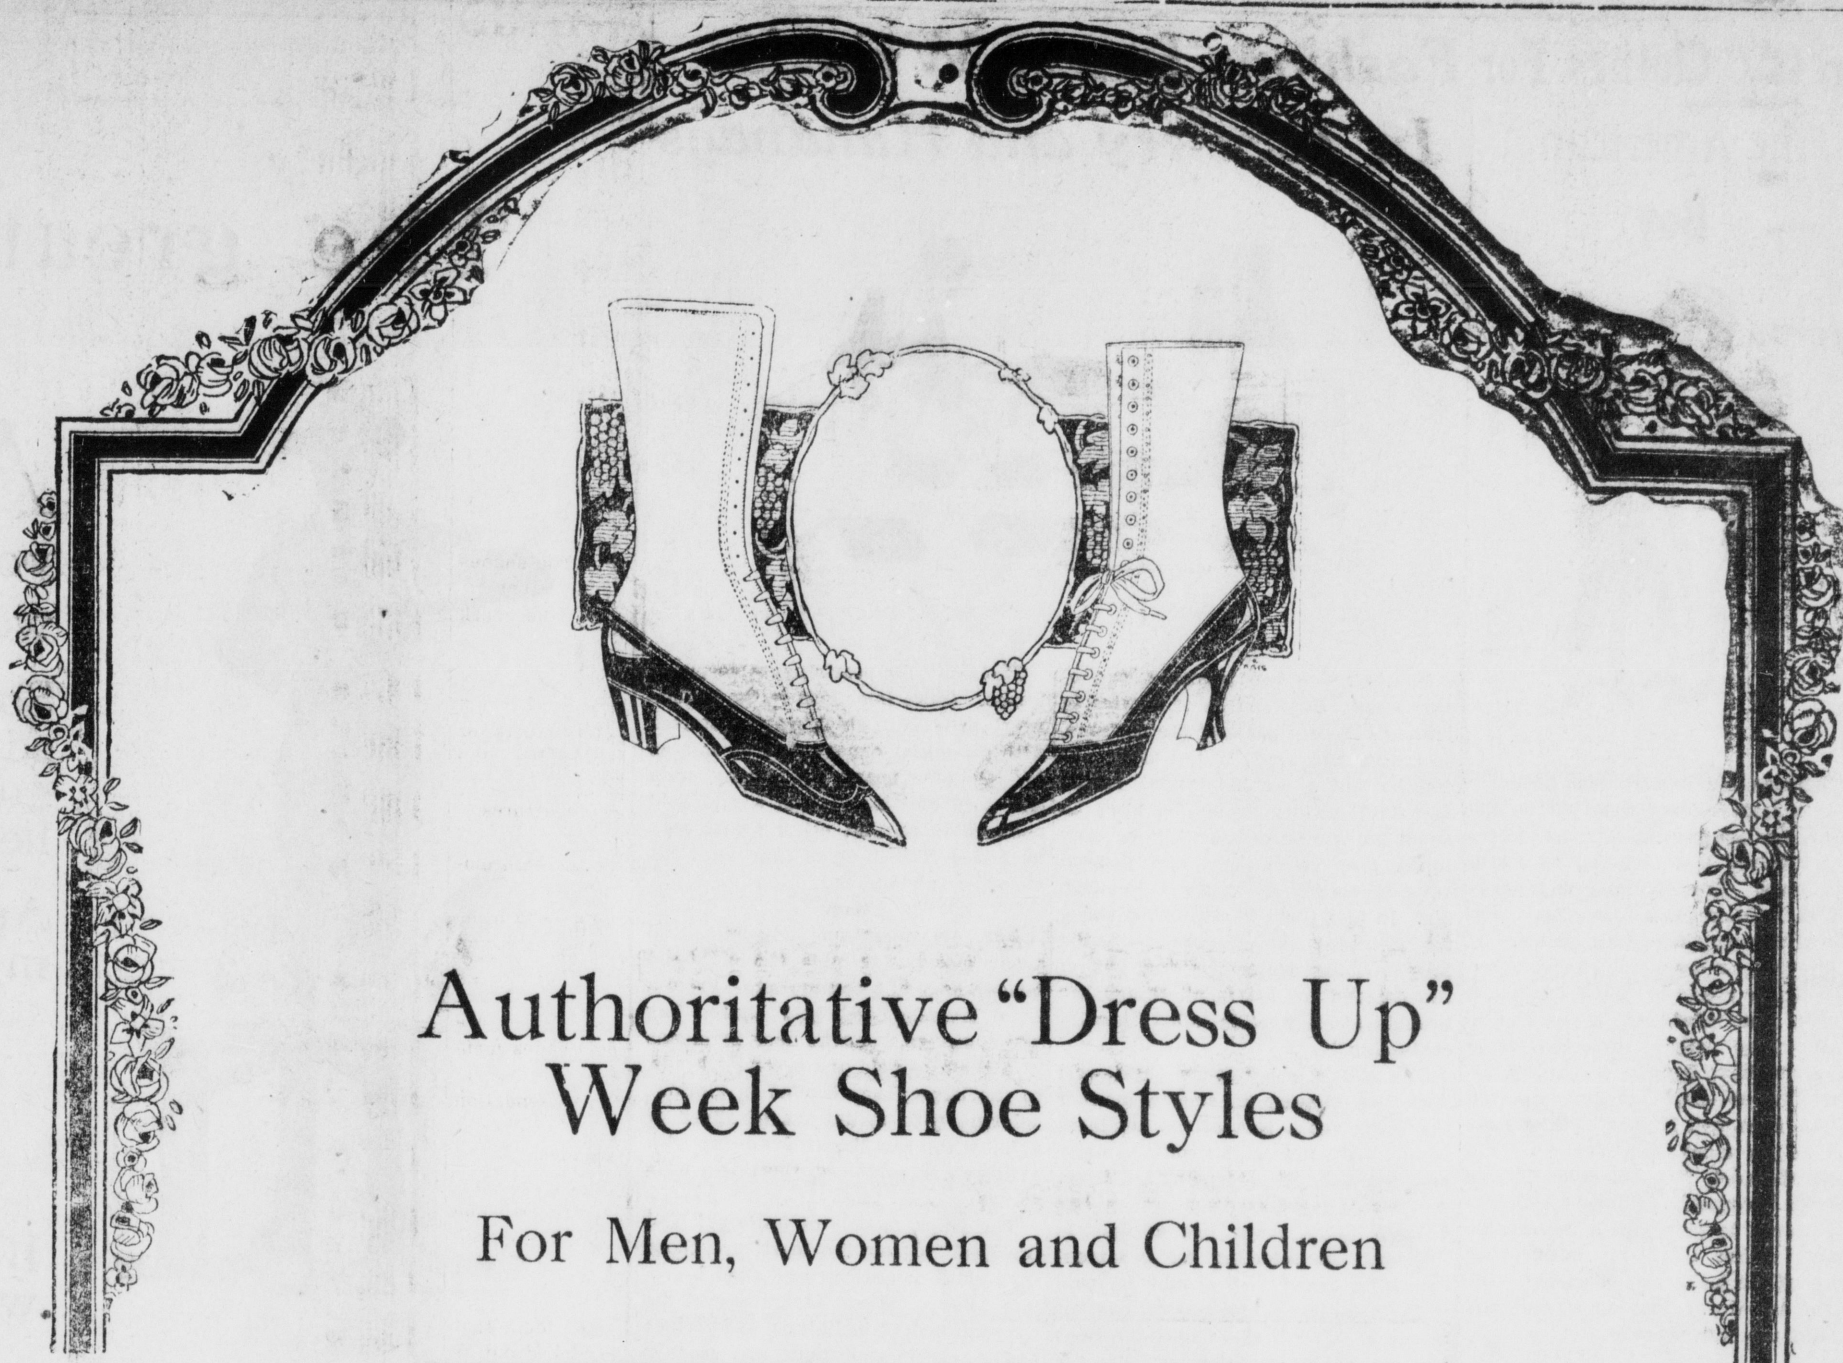

What turns the female eye quicker from its planned attention more than than the sudden smart appearance of a keen young male? Or what will point a wife out to be selfish, in the eyes of her lady friends, quicker than to see an unkempt husband? Is not the first thought of an actor taking a new part, "My wardrobe?" All of these roads lead to Dress Up suggestions.

There are some men with ability, who hate conventions—they sniff at the idea of looking well. "I'll let my work speak for me—not what I appear to be capable of doing," they say. And they take three steps to the other fellows' two—the other fellows who are just as capable but get away with a flying start by looking fit to take the part—while the chaps who do not care begin handicapped. And often at the start the less capable man, by looking capable, steps in where he rightfully does not belong.

Holding Back Ability

The world does not like to meet the sick, sorrowful or untidy. In a cluster of village dogs it is the mangy, yaller cur that is picked on—the dog that doesn't care. A careless appearance is to the eye what a closed car ride is to the nostrils or untuned instruments to the ears. Who likes to walk with a scuffler—or "My Uncle John without his collar on?"

In war time much of the call is the glitter of brass-buttoned uniforms—to the chap who gets in one—to the girl who is left behind.

Dressy Clothes For the American Boy

Fashions Latest Wrinkles In Jewelery and Handbags

The reds, blues and greens formerly so prominent in boys' wear will be displaced for the present by those colors that involves less blending to attain full tones. Browns, tans and grays are such colors and from these you will of necessity take your choice. Of course in the more costly clothes these rare shades are to be found, but you'll pay for your indulgence if you choose them. Blue serges, formerly staple garments, have become a scarcity, especially blue serges of fine imported aniline dyes, and if your clothier asks you to pay more than hitherto for a good all wool, fast color blue serge suit it's because he is honest with you and wants to give you a dependable quality rather than to meet your price with a makeshift garment. This is the tax we are paying as our part toward the wars abroad.

The makers of clothes and especially the makers of boys' clothes, have launched the more subdued colors as fashionable for this fall because the low price attached to boys' clothes and the narrow profits on boys' clothes to both maker and retailer will not permit the more expensive color effects—at least not in the prices you are willing to pay for Tommy's knockabout suit.

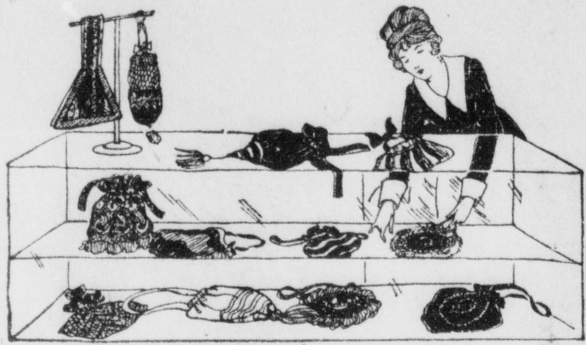

However, what you may have to sacrifice in color effect you are going to be compensated for by a showing of cleverly manipulated patterns and unusually tasty styles.

Norfolk for Boys

Norfolk styles are still the vogue in suits for school boys, and in these the patch pocket styles are leaders.

This has been the fashion for several recent seasons, but if you think the same old styles are going to be returned to you, look into the windows or the display cases of your smartest boys' outfitters and see the many startling, nifty novelties and innovations in styling that are revealed.

Many boys' models are also being shown this fall in regular styles without the Norfolk effect. These in almost all cases retain the patch pockets and are given decorative effect by details on the pocket flaps and cuffs. Some of these flaps are slanting, some are triangular and others semi-circular with a button effect. The cuffs have ornamentation, mock cuff effect or

Jewels serve two purposes, one of usefulness; they can be of service in joining different parts of the costume, in telling the time, or the other use may be that of ornamentation. In the day time jewelry should be worn as much for use as ornamentation. Any touch that carries out the general color scheme of the dress is permissible. In fact there is a growing vogue for matching the costume with the jewels. The desire growing out of the demand for art in all things has brought about what is called "jewelry costuming."

The aim is to harmonize the jewels with the costume in such a manner that they are a part of the complete whole. Art lies in harmony in color and outline. The blending of tones possible in semi-precious stones has brought about many new designs in jewelry. In selecting an ornament careful consideration should be paid to the complexion and general contour of the face, for if these considerations are not given attention, oftentimes the result jars one's aesthetic taste.

An Ark Story

There are some splendid specimens of fine jewelry work set with garnets. The merits ascribed to this stone were many and mostly of a medicinal character in olden days. In the carbuncle form they are credited with illumination, and it is related that a carbuncle suspended in Noah's Ark furnished the light for the dark days of the deluge.

The sapphire is one of the most popular gems, and one of the richest sapphire bearing districts in the world today is situated in Montana. In colors these sapphires are from a deep magenta through the colors of cornflower blue and royal blue to pale blue. Montana sapphires retain their brilliancy in artificial light, while Oriental sapphires, except the most expensive, absorb artificial light and lose their luster.

link cuff treatment. Lapels are somewhat narrower than heretofore in the single breasted styles. Belts also are wider than formerly and some extremely smart effects have belts fully three inches wide.

The Trousers

Trousers are both straight and bloomer styles though the straight trousers are showing more favor than

The fancy for pearls never seems to lessen. Quite ingenious is the "add-a-pearl necklace," which may be started with an initial expenditure as low as $5. Genuine pearls are strung on a silk cord and inserted in a fine gold neck chain so that other pearls may be added from time to time until the necklace is completed.

Bags

Bags are important accessories and many closely resemble the old hand beaded bags of a century ago. From a little lavender and gold beaded bag which swings from the neck by means of a chain of gold and lavender beads, to the larger bags beaded in glorious coloring with mountings of silver or gold, or the bag simply drawn up with a silver and gold cord, there is a wide choice.

The latest models of faille silk and practical, to say the least, are those with shell mountings and shell bracelets. Fancy linings have replaced the conventional plain linings, and stripes and small floral designs are used in the latest models.

In accord with the crinoline effects in skirts some smart handbags are in hooped effect. The rickshaw bags have alternate sections of patent leather and silk, are round as an apple and roomy enough to be accepted as an attractive receptacle.

A new vanity gate-top mesh purse has the top containing a powder puff compartment and a reducing mirror. The bag need not be opened. If the small cover is opened the mirror and puff are revealed without rummaging through the bag itself.

A bag of dark purple faille silk has a novelty strap handle of silk attached to the bracelet. The mountings are of silver and a crystal knob.

A draw string bag ornamented with deep frill and scalloped effect, has the edges finished with a flexible silver edge.

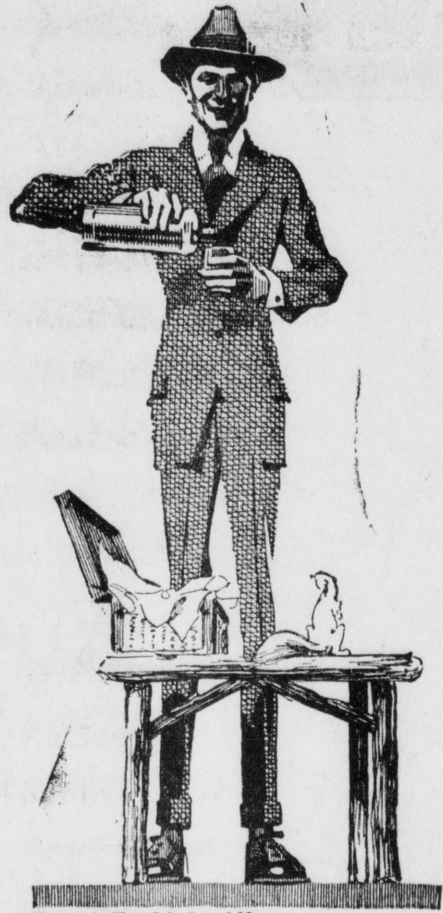

they have in several seasons. The bloomer trousers are not quite so full as in previous seasons.

In fabrics, worsteds and serges and the patterns are running toward small mixed effects. Solid colors and large overlaid are shown largely in the higher priced lines, as the dye market necessitates smaller effects where economy in price is to be considered.

Special Note—The Refined Short Skirt—neither extremely short nor extremely long—but that comes just below the shoe top, and which measures from 6 to 8 inches from the ground, according to the height of the wearer, is the latest fall and winter garment style announcement.

PERIOD FURNITURE The coming into popularity of the period type of furniture is giving a wider range to those who wish to put an artistic and a different touch to their home. In the early part of the 16th Century there were many designers of note, such as R. & J. Adams, Heppelwhite, and Sheraton. Through their careful study of details they introduced designs that will stand throughout the ages.

Today we find these designs reproduced in what is called modern period designs. Below you will find some reproductions of Modern Period Furniture.

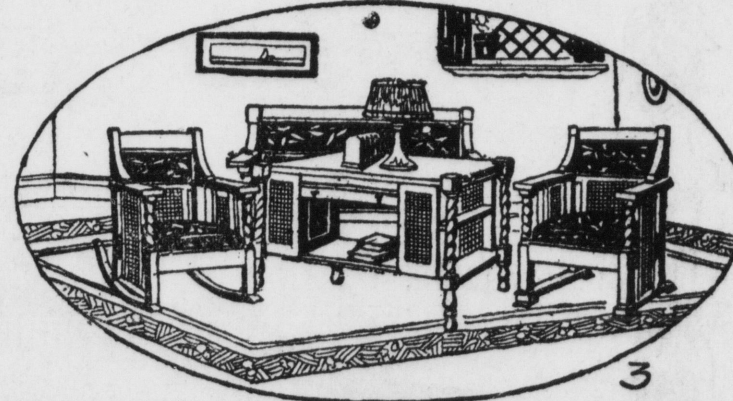

Our stock of living room furniture, in the Jacobean design is complete in every detail, including luxurious and comfortable chairs and rockers, with library tables and davenport to match.

A living room furnished with modern period furniture, blended with soft Oriental colors as used in rugs and draperies, offers a wide contrast from the straight line Mission designs as has been used in the past.

We have adopted what is known as William and Mary, and Jacobean designs for our living room and dining room furniture. These new designs are coming into popularity throughout the United States, and their artistic nature lends itself beautifully to the dull, soft Kennelworth finish that is being used.

The dining room set, of which we are showing a cut, is presented with the hope of carrying with it some impression of the many beautiful dining tables, chairs, buffets and china closets that are on our floor.

Period Furniture applies to bed rooms as well as to living rooms and dining rooms. The more popular designs for bed rooms is the Adam, design and post and scroll Colonial.

We are showing a beautiful line of bed room furniture in Old Ivory and White Enamel, Mahogany and Black Walnut finishes. The soft tones of these finishes blend beautifully with the pink and blue cretonnes and rugs, now so generally used for bed rooms.

Poor Old Rube Marquard Almost Cries As Bean Eaters Find His Best Ones

EBBETS FIELD, Brooklyn, Oct. 11.— Boston came back after the beating
they received yesterday and walked all over Rube Marquard. With Carrigan behind the mask himself, and every Red Sox member playing for the big money, the game was a case of whip hand high from the opening inning.
Confidence ran high in the Brooklyn
seats today when the game opened,
but that confidence was dragged to an ebb before the Boston men got through. Marquard was pounded from every side and angle. The team behind him worked as well as any team could be expected to under the volley of concentrated slugging that was shown here this afternoon. The pennant is in the hands of Boston, as far as any maker of a dope sheet is saying, and the money laid is placed at anything from 2 to 1 up to 10 to 3.

Rube gave up the struggle in the fifth, and was replaced by Cheney.
Cheney appeared to be no more effective against the Carrigan batting machine than had been the veteran before him. He lasted almost three innings, and was replaced by Rucker in the eighth.

Boston began the slaughter in the second inning when they rapped the ball for three scores, again in the fourth, and in the fifth and seventh Boston crossed the home plate. Brooklyn succeeded in making but five hits in all, and scored her two runs in the first inning. She had the moral advantage at the opening of the game,
and when the first two runs came across, the bleachers shook with the howsls of Brooklyn fans. There was joy in that crowd that could not be contained. But the joy has turned to sadness, and when one meets a Dodger fan tonight, he meets him with a hanging head. The spirit of the team is gone. The series may as well be called over, from the appearance here tonight.

BLOOD FLOWS WITH SHOOTING AT STRIKE

BAYONNE, N. J., Oct. 11.—Four policemen were shot in a battle late yesterday with striking employees of the Tidewater Oil Company after they had been attacked by a mob.
They returned the fire and eight of the strikers were wounded, four of them so severely they may die. None of the policemen was dangerously wounded.

Armed policemen were early yesterday placed on guard of the local plant of the Standard Oil Company. The strikers, 3000 in number, demand wage increases of from 20 to 30 per cent. A trolley car carrying men to work yesterday was attacked with stones, but no one was seriously injured.

Armed Police Patrol District
BAYONNE, N. J., Oct. 11.—Patrolmen armed with Winchester and automatics are policing "The Hook"
district near the great Standard Oil plants here today. "The Hook" is the name given to the district near the scene of the riot.

The Brooklyn aggregation showed some weakness in the field, and were erratic in their play, but only four errors are charged, where there might have been more. Leonard went through everything but a cyclone in the first inning, and proved himself invincible. After the first wild session, he got back to earth and allowed only three hits during the rest of the game. The big southpaw was at his best. Larry Gardner picked his second homer for the series off Marquard
in the second.

HUGHES DENIES ANY GERMAN OR OTHER ALLIANCE

Candidate In His Speeches In West Virginia, Denies the Hapgood Charge

BY PERRY ARNOLD

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 11.— Candidate Hughes today made a curt denial of the charges of Norman Hap-
good that there is an understanding between himself and the German propagandists. He did not mention the charges specifically, nor did he mention Hapgood's name.

"I have no understandings; no agreements; no intrigues with anybody," Hughes said. "But I stand for the interests of the United States, protection to American lives and to American property as well as American commerce throughout the world."

The Hughes special today swung westward through West Virginia. The nominee continued his indictment against the Democratic policies. He scheduled four speeches in Clark-sburg, Petersburg, Huntington and Charleston. In each of these he planned to direct the fire of his criticism mainly against the Democratic failure
to live up to the pledges of 1912.
Speaking here early today, he assailed
the Democratic administration in its handling of the Mexican problems. He solemnly warned his auditors of the evil days he said were bound to come
if, after peace in Europe had been arranged, the United States was forced to compete with the world under the provisions of the Underwood tariff bill. Hughes' voice was strong and clear. He was probably in the best shape he has been since he started the combat in August. Today for the first time he began to develop orator's gestures, and pulled little tricks of speaking of which Roosevelt might be proud.

rest of the California militiamen, except the new Company A Engineers' Corps, which went to the border two weeks ago, will leave Nogales, Ariz.,
in twelve troop trains, Thursday, reaching Los Angeles Saturday and Sunday,

nouncement last night by Colonel D.
G. Mathewson, C. N. G. The Seventh Regiment will be included.

Intoxicated? No, It's Appendicitis of Twister Sort

Writhing Mexican Taken to County Hospital Instead
Of to County Jail

S. M. Garcia was not merely intoxicated. He had appendicitis.
Instead of being crazy with drink
he was crazed with agony.

Last night Deputy Sheriff Cravath got a call from the Dalton ranch a mile and a half north of Garden Grove, stating that an intoxicated Mexican was on the porch creating a disturbance.

Cravath went to the place. He found a Mexican who was groaning and writhing. Cravath diagnosed the case as one for a doctor
instead of one for a deputy sheriff.
He took the man to the county hospital, where Dr. Zaiser said the man was suffering from appendicitis. Garcia, who lives at New-hope, was passing the Dalton ranch when he was stricken with frightful pains in the abdomen and he immediately sought help. He laid down on the porch and turned over and over in his agony. An operation may be advised.

HUGE ELECTRIC EXPOSITION TO PORTRAY PROGRESS

(By United Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—One of the real "big shows" of the United States
—the Electrical Exposition of 1916—
opened in the Grand Central Palace here today featuring preparedness and the part electricity plays in modern warfare. Some of the exhibits are by the United States Army and Navy.
Others showing the purely industrial side of the participation of electricity
in war—such as the moving of munitions machinery by motors were by private firms. An exhibition feature not heretofore in general vogue is the showing side by side of the most modern electrical appliance and the first of its kind. This graphically portrays the wonderful progress in the electrical field.

'REPARATION' IS DEMAND OF LORD ASQUITH

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Asquith received a tremendous ovation at the House of Commons this afternoon in the midst of a speech in which he moved the establishment of new war credits. "This war cannot end in a patched up, precarious, dishonoring compromise, or masquerading under the name of peace," the prime minister said; "this isn't the moment for faint hearts or wavering counsels. The allies are not vindictive, but they will require from their enemies an adequate reparation
for the past and a gilt-edge security
for the future."

The premier's declarations on the subject of peace came toward the conclusion of an address in which he asked new credits of one billion and a half from the Commons, bringing the total for war up to fifteen billions, six hundred and sixty millions. He followed his request with Brice's statement of the military situation, pointing out the recent operations on the Somme, in which Haig's men advanced to seven miles from nine miles, holding all their conquered positions. His emphatic statement regarding peace is lending new emphasis. Lloyd George's recent statement on peace to the United Press was construed by hearers as Britain's final answer to the recent peace rumors emanating from the United States and Germany. The House of Commons welcomed the statements with great outbursts of applause.

BIG GUNS STILL BELCH FIRE

LONDON, Oct. 11.—German artillery was more active last night on a large part of the battle front, was Haig's report. At Neuville the Germans exploded a mine, causing no casualties.

GRENADES HELP FRENCH

PARIS, Oct. 11.—Along the south
Somme where the French yesterday carried the village of Bouvent, the French progressed further during the night by the aid of grenade operations.
Most of the night was spent in organizing the newly won positions.

BRITISH GAIN ON BULGAR FRONT

LONDON, Oct. 11.—The official report for this day states that British troops have arrived within two miles of the Greek City of Seres, in their new offensive movement against the Bulgars. In an engagement late yesterday, the Bulgarian cavalry operating two miles south of that city was driven back and dispersed.

FIRST RUMANIAN INVASION BY GERMANY

ian troops under General von Krofft,

and for the first time since the opening of hostilities, are now invading Rumanian soil. The invasion is from

The action of the main committee

STAKES ON LINE NORTH ACROSS S. P. TRACKS TO ORANGE

Admittedly a Part of Route
Is Already Salt Lake
Right of Way

Stakes are set along Poinsettia
street, north across the Southern Pacific tracks at Fourteenth street, north across Seventeenth and Twentieth street near Valencia avenue, north across property on the west side of Santiago avenue to the Santiago creek.

If continued northward this line will pass through Orange between the Santa Fe and Batavia street,
and will reach the ranches where
a crew of surveyors was held up last week by a rancher who wanted to know who they represented.

It looks as though the Salt Lake railroad is figuring on building
through Orange.

A few weeks ago Salt Lake officials stated that the string of lots from Stafford street south to Chestnut that had been bought had been bought for the Salt Lake right of way.

It was reported that the Salt Lake
in reaching Santa Ana would use the
S. P. tracks from Anaheim to Santa Ana.

With the activity of two crews of surveyors in the last few days, there are plenty of indications that the Salt Lake has changed its mind, and will enter Santa Ana on its own tracks
through Orange.

Stakes, bearing numbers such as
"1332," "1333," "1334," consecutively,
are set on the west edge of Poinsettia street. This same line of stakes is to be found through orchard property as far north as Santiago creek, probably fourth. One stake is set beside a barn on what was formerly the Harry Terwinger place on the west side of Santiago avenue.

The principal reason for the decision of the Salt Lake to build through Whittier, Fullerton and Anahaim to Santa Ana was to reach new territory for shipments. That the railroad should have passed Orange seemed strange. That it is considering building or is going to build through Orange seems to be a certainty.

PRESIDENT AND SECRETARY AT LATE HOUR MEETING

New Problems of the Diver War Demand Consideration
Of the Chief Executive

BUSINESS INTERESTS DEMAND CESSATION

Say Not Only Commerce, But American Lives Endangered
In Warfare on This Side

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Oct. 11.—It is believed that Secretary Lansing, in his conference with the President last night, was discussing the attitude America should take at having the great war brought to the very doors of this country. Whether or not the United States should tolerate the activities of the submarines off the coast,
or on the other hand, the stringing of British submarine nets near Nantucket, is the grave problem now arising from this latest development of the conflict.

Confer Until Late Hour
It was at a late hour last night that the meeting between the chief executive and Secretary Lansing was brought to a close. The impression was given that they considered Germany within her promise to the United States, as regarded the actions of the U-53 commander last Sunday.
There is as yet no evidence of a promise being broken. The Secretary left at a quarter before nine this morning, after his night conference.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—That the submarine raid off the Nantucket shoals Sunday is only a starter of bringing the war across the Atlantic and at the very doors to America, is concluded from the report received here today
that Great Britain is about to stretch
a submarine net off the coast and just outside the three-mile limit.

Local Shippers Frightened
The activities of the submarines have thrown a scare into shipping at this point, that is hard to get over.
The insurance companies are unwilling to accept risks, and twenty-five percent of the passengers who booked passage on the Adriatic, which sails tomorrow, have cancelled their berths
and refuse to leave port.

May Have Cruiser Convoy
The liners Philadelphia and Minnehaha are due to leave tomorrow, and report that they will sail. This gives rise to a report in shipping circles
that they will be met at the three-mile limit by a convoy of British cruisers, who will stay with them until they reach the other side.

Think Rose Turned South
It is the belief of the British officials that Capt. Rose turned south
after his Sunday raid, and will steer his course to block the path of the unprotected allied shipping in the southern waters.

Would Make No Statement
Secretary Lansing refused to make any statement on leaving Long Branch this morning, for Washington. It is known, however, that scores of telegrams have been received at Shadow Lawn, from the business interests of America, demanding that sharp re-miners be given Germany that the United States will not tolerate a virtual blockade of American ports.

Menace to American Lives
The statements made in the telegrams bear upon the menace ever present to the lives of Americans, should Germany be allowed to wage
her war on this side of the Atlantic.
There is a strong undercurrent of feeling against any such practice. The demands call for more than a mere protest on the part of this government.

Action Probable
It is considered likely that steps will be taken by this government at once, to determine the policy of Germany in waging any further warfare on this side. The Imperial government will be asked if it expects to make the campaign on this side permanent. Attention was recalled to the statement made by the commander of the U-53 in Newport harbor,
that he was going out to kill some Englishmen.

ADMIRAL CLEAVES

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 11.—The search for the balance of the survivors of the Kingston, or Kingstonsian, as the case may be, is now considered no

who has had charge of the work being carried on by the eleven destroyers.
He says he has practically given up all hope of finding anything of the supposedly wrecked steamer.

NEW ARGENTINE PRESIDENT IS NOT SEEKING PUBLICITY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 16 (by mail).—When Hipolito Irigoyen takes the oath of office tomorrow as president of Argentina, his country will start on one of the biggest experiments ever undertaken by a republic. Dr. Irigoyen will head the first Radical administration in Argentina.

What the doctor's idea of "radicalism" is, nobody knows. He has made no speeches. He has written almost nothing. He has never defined his position.

What he intends to do, as president, not one of his countrymen can guess. Nobody knows whether he is Pan-American.

The Radical party was organized in Argentina to fight for fair elections. It never had any other platform. "We have ideals," leading members of the party say, "but no program."

There are even reports that Dr. Irigoyen will issue a manifesto soon dissolving the party itself now that an honest ballot, as he is said to believe, is more surmise.

The doctor was elected president because a majority of the voters trusted him, personally, implicitly and blindly.

WHAT IS URIC ACID?

Does Uric Acid Cause Backache, Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble?

Dear Dr. Pierce:—What is Uric Acid? Does it cause kidney trouble? Not long ago I was examined for insurance and an analysis of the kidney secretions showed an excess of Uric Acid.

I suffer from backache, rheumatism in my limbs, but never before suspected my kidneys. I recognize you as an authority on these subjects, and wish you would give me this information.

Lewis R. My dear Sir: Answering your letter, Uric Acid indicates poisoning of the system; it is also associated with several other poisons and forms painful irritants in the cells of the joints, nerves and muscles. Everyone has Uric Acid in the system, but naturally in small quantities. Excessive amount is caused by eating too much meat and foods that ferment in stomach. The kidneys being the filters of the blood are supposed to separate and throw the poisons out of the system. Weak, tired and over-worked kidneys fail to do this, hence the poisonous Uric Acid and its associated poisons contaminate the blood, causing backache, lumbago, rheumatism, dropsy, drowsy and tired, worn-out feeling, short breath and many other symptoms.

To overcome the trouble is only a matter of toning up the kidneys, and this is best done by a treatment with "An-Uric" with proper diet and exercise. This prescription has been thoroughly tested and used by specialists at my institution, in Buffalo, N. Y., with satisfactory results, and astonishing relief.

I recently put "An-Uric" before the American people and it may now be obtained from almost any one of the leading druggists in town, simply by asking for Dr. Pierce's "An-Uric," in tablet form.

Take good medical advice, and do not let deadly Bright's Disease or Diabetes develop from neglected kidneys.

(Signed) V. M. PIERCE, M. D.

Those who believe in him consider him Argentina's greatest man. His opponents regard him as extremely dangerous, and look forward to his administration with the gravest misgivings.

Dr. Irigoyen is about 60, a tall, powerfully-built, imposing man, and very dark. His blood is Spanish Basque, with a slight Indian strain, some say. He is smoothly shaven, except for a very thin black mustache.

The president began life poor. He is self-educated but did his work so well that, today, he is a highly cultivated man.

He is now very rich. His wealth was accumulated in land transactions. By occupation he is a ranchman on a huge scale. Part of his time he spends on his "estancia" in the country; the rest at his very modest residence in Buenos Aires.

For a long time, for pure recreation, he held the professorship of "civic instruction" at the Buenos Aires Escuela Normal de Mujeres, or Normal School for Women. His salary for this work he turned over regularly to the Sociedad de Beneficencia, or "United Charities" of Buenos Aires. Twelve years ago a president who was his personal enemy caused his removal from this post.

For twenty years he has been the absolute leader of the Radical party. His opponents within the party's ranks have been few and, he has always won them over.

"His mere presence," as one of his admirers expressed it, "is magnetic." Twice he has been concerned in attempted revolutions. One was very nearly successful but both finally failed through premature exposure.

Irigoyen himself was never arrested in connection with these attempts. He did not flee. So far as could be ascertained, he continued to live in his house in Buenos Aires, but somehow, when the police called to make him a prisoner, he never was there.

A singular dislike he has always manifested to being photographed is generally attributed to habits formed in his days as a revolutionist, when the authorities' possession of his likeness might have landed him in jail. So far as the public knows, nobody has a picture of him. Once he really was "snapped" but a moment later he smashed the camera with his walking stick.

From the moment of his election he secluded himself in his town house. No politicians were admitted. He received no office-seekers. He refused to make any promises. He has listened to no suggestions. His house is without a telephone and he has answered no letters.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo of the United States, a visitor in Argentina, was one who wanted to see him. Irigoyen sent out word that he was ill.

SAVANNAH'S MYSTERY U-BOAT PROVES MYTH

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 11.—Reports of a submarine lurking outside the harbor failed to materialize today and were generally discredited by shipping men. The British steamer Nova cleared during the morning.

planes are reported to be sweeping the Atlantic for the German diver U-53, and any others which may have accompanied her. According to the reports received here, the "Submarine Hawks" put out from Halifax, and sped away in the direction of the spot where the Greek steamer Patris was reported as being stopped yesterday. They will continue the search as long as practical. The aeroplanes fly high above the surface of the water, and in case the diver is at all near the surface, they are able to see her, even though submerged. The search by the planes is a supplement to the work of the British cruisers who are sweeping a broad path in the way Capt. Rose was supposed to have taken after leaving the Nantucket shoals.

MERCHANT SHIPS CLOSE WIRELESS KEYS

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Evidently all the vessels plying in the waters along this section of the great Atlantic highway are keeping the keys of their wireless instruments closed, in order that no indication may be given the submarines, as to the whereabouts of the freighters. The night was absolutely quiet, as the shore stations received no messages from the boats near the shore. This is unusual, as there is at all times a constant roar of the sparkers as the shipping vessels near the hook.

GIVE UP SEARCH FOR THE KINGSTONIAN

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 11.—The search for the crew of the Kingstonian, one of the vessels reported to be torpedoed by a German submarine off Nantucket last Sunday, was abandoned last night and the twelve torpedo boat destroyers that have been engaged in this work were ordered to return to port. For the last forty-eight hours they have conducted their search systematically within the zone of the submarine's operations and it is believed that any small boat drifting with a shipwrecked crew would have been sighted.

HIGHLY INDIGNANT OVER SINKING OF SHIP

AMSTERDAM (via London), Oct. 11.—The Dutch press is highly indignant at the sinking of the Holland-American line steamer Bloomersdijk, which, it is declared, was absolutely illegal and contrary to maritime law. "We ask with astonishment," says the Nieuws Van der Dagh, "what reason the submarine commander could have for torpedoing a neutral vessel with a neutral cargo for a neutral population. There was no possibility of a mistake, for the commander of the submarine must have been aware of the character of the vessel, and for that illegal act Germany must be made to pay full compensation."

The Handelsblatt demands that the government send a strong protest to the German Government.

The Telegraaf regards the raid as "a son to the Von Tirpitzites," and thinks that probably the Germans are allowing their submarines to operate along the fringe of American territorial waters to test the extent of American patience.

ARGUMENT NARROWS TO QUESTION OF SAFETY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Final decision on the policy of the United States toward the U-boat raid off the New England coast has narrowed down, in the view of officials here, to a consideration of whether proper provision was made for the safety of the persons taken from the attacked vessels and left at sea in small boats.

Although without definite information as to the attitude which will be taken by President Wilson, with whom the decision rests, high official circles are convinced that only direct evidence of insufficient steps to protect life will develop a diplomatic issue over the incident between the United States and Germany. A statement of the facts has been requested from the American naval officers at Newport.

STOCKS FALL AT U-BOAT FEARS

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Nervous over the possibility of another outbreak of the submarine activity, traders sent stocks down today.

REPLY IS MADE TO DEMAND OF THE ALLIES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The following memorandum has been handed by the United States Government to the allied powers in response to their memorandum asking this country to exclude German submarines from American ports: "The Government of the United States has received the identical memorandum of the governments of France, Great Britain, Russia and Japan, in which neutral governments are exhorted to take efficacious measures tending to prevent belligerent submarines, regardless of their use, to avail themselves of neutral waters, roadsteads and harbors."

for by having at their disposal places where they can rest and replenish their supplies. Apparently on these grounds the allied governments hold that submarine vessels must be excluded from the benefit of the rules heretofore accepted under international law regarding the admission and sojourn of war and merchant vessels in neutral waters, roadsteads or harbors; any submarine of a belligerent that once enters a neutral harbor must be held, and therefore the allied governments 'warn neutral powers of the great danger to neutral submarines attending the navigation of waters visited by the submarines of belligerents.'

"In reply the Government of the United States must express its surprise that there appears to be an endeavor of the powers to determine the rule of action governing what they regard as a 'novel situation' in respect to the use of the submarines in time of war and to enforce acceptance of that rule, at least in part, by warning neutral powers of the great danger to their submarines in waters that may be visited by belligerent submarines."

"In the opinion of the government of the United States, the allied powers have not set forth any circumstances, nor is the Government of the United States at present aware of any circumstances concerning the uses of war or merchant submarines which would render the existing rules of international law inapplicable to them. In view of this fact, and of the notice and warning of the allied powers announced in their memoranda under acknowledgment, it is incumbent upon the Government of the United States to notify the governments of France, Great Britain, Russia and Japan that, so far as the treatment of either war or merchant submarines in American waters is concerned, the Government of the United States reserves its liberty of action in all respects and will treat such vessels as, in its opinion, becomes the action of a power which may be said to have taken the first steps toward establishing the principles of neutrality, and which for over a century has maintained these principles in the traditional spirit and with the high sense of impartiality in which they were conceived."

"In order, however, that there should be no misunderstanding as to the attitude of the United States, the Government of the United States announces to the allied powers that it holds it to be the duty of belligerent powers to distinguish between submarines of a neutral and belligerent nationality and that responsibility for any conflict that may arise between belligerent warships and neutral submarines on account of the actions of a belligerent to so distinguish between these classes of submarines rests entirely upon the negligent power."

"The Government of the United States, however, holds that there should be no misunderstanding as to the attitude of the United States, the Government of the United States announces to the allied powers that it holds it to be the duty of belligerent powers to distinguish between submarines of a neutral and belligerent nationality and that responsibility for any conflict that may arise between belligerent warships and neutral submarines on account of the actions of a belligerent to so distinguish between these classes of submarines rests entirely upon the negligent power."

BEAN PAYMENT OF $2.50 SET FOR OCT. 15

Growers Association Says It Will Make Settlement Each Month

On October 15 the California Lima Bean Growers' Association is to make a payment of $2.50 per 100 pounds to growers, for all beans delivered to the association during the month of September.

On November 15 a similar payment will be made for all beans delivered during October, and subsequent payments will be made in like manner. In this way, the growers get about 50 per cent of their money soon after delivery is made.

The California Lima Bean Growers' Association has achieved wonderful success in all its operations to date. It has practically succeeded in eliminating speculation and manipulation from the market, and the various prices established from time to time have been eminently satisfactory, not alone to the growers, but to the eastern trade as well. As a fitting climax to its achievements comes the announcement of its schedule for payments.

TO SUPERVISE TEST OF WEIGHT SYSTEM

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—A committee of railway officials, headed by A. P. Thom of the Southern Pacific, asked the Interstate Commerce Commission today to supervise closely the Postoffice Department's test of the space basis for railway mail pay, which is to begin November 1 under the new postal law. The roads ask that mail handled on space calculation during the test be weighed also for the sake of comparison.

Under the law the commission finally will decide whether space basis is to be made permanent.

BROTHERS OF THE AIR BRING DOWN 12 PLANES IN WAR

Note—Since Wood mailed the following story of the friendship of Lieutenants Deullin and de la Tour, Deullin has shot down his sixth and seventh plane. Lieutenant de la Tour remains at five.

BY HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Sept. 8 (by mail).—Lieutenant Deullin and Lieutenant Hubert de la Tour, the Damon and Pythias of the French aviation service, have just suffered the bitter disappointment of failing to bring down together—as they had solemnly sworn they would do—their fifth German aviator.

Less than twelve hours separated the individual exploits of the two friends, Deullin bringing down his fifth German on the evening of August 24 and De la Tour his fifth on the following morning, yet the interval of twelve hours broke the solemn compact which they had been able to maintain from their joint entrance into the French aviation service.

To lessen a little their regret the French government officially announced the two exploits in the same communique but the aviators are firmly convinced that destiny has now intervened in their friendship.

Deullin, who is only 26 years old, entered the French aviation service on May 25, 1915, his license being No. 2078, which gives some idea of the number of aviators France has at her disposal.

De la Tour, who comes from an old noble French family, and who possesses a magnificent chateau at Chaulieu, where Richard the Lion Hearted died, preceded Deullin by a couple of months. Nevertheless the two young aviators were thrown almost instantly together, and unlike Nungesser, who insists always on flying alone, they insisted on flying together. Their Damon and Pythias friendship was quickly cemented, when in the same flight each one brought down his first German airplane. Soon, there followed for each, the second German airplane brought down in a joint flight, and then the third and then the fourth. By this time the two aviators had flown both at Verdun and at the Somme, and they had solemnly sworn that as in the past their next aviator would be brought down at the same time in a joint flight.

Unfortunately on the evening of August 24 in one of their usual joint flights Deullin brought down his opponent while De la Tour's got away. Bitterly disappointed, the two men only waited until daylight the next morning before starting to retrieve their misfortune. In this flight they only succeeded in finding one German aviator whom Deullin generously left to his friend, and who lost no time in bringing him down. Their disappointment was slightly lessened but they frankly admit the fear they feel that their solemn compact can no longer be maintained.

There is only one thing that will reassure them and that is that the sixth aviator to be brought down by each will be brought down at the same time in a joint flight. Not only they, but the entire French aviation service is keenly awaiting the moment when this supreme test will come.

FARM PRODUCTS RISE 47.6 PER CENT IN YEAR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Prices of farm products continue to rise. Producers were being paid 47.6 per cent more on October 1 than a year ago, the Department of Agriculture announced today in its monthly statement of the level of prices on principal crops. That level increased 1.3 per cent during September, compared with a decrease of about 3 per cent during that month in the last eight years. October 1 two years ago, prices were 19.9 per cent lower than on that date this year and the average for the last eight years on October 1 was 23.8 per cent lower.

Women Once Invalids

Now in Good Health Through Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Say it is Household Necessity. Doctor Called it a Miracle.

All women ought to know the wonderful effects of taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound even on those who seem hopelessly ill. Here are three actual cases:

Harrisburg, Penn.—"When I was single I suffered a great deal from female weakness because my work compelled me to stand all day. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for that and was made stronger by its use. After I was married I took the Compound again for a female trouble and after three months I passed what the doctor called a growth. He said it was a miracle that it came away as one generally goes under the knife to have them removed. I never want to be without your Compound in the house."—Mrs. FRANK KNOBL, 1642 Fulton St., Harrisburg, Penn.

Hardly Able to Move.

Albert Lea, Minn.—"For about a year I had sharp pains across my back and hips and was hardly able to move around the house. My head would ache and I was dizzy and had no appetite. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, I am feeling stronger than for years. I have a little boy eight months old and am doing my work all alone. I would not be without your remedies in the house as there are none like them."—Mrs. F. E. YOSR, 611 Water St., Albert Lea, Minn.

Three Doctors Gave Her Up.

Pittsburg, Penn.—"Your medicine has helped me wonderfully. When I was a girl 18 years old I was always sickly and delicate and suffered from irregularities. Three doctors gave me up and said I would go into consumption. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and with the third bottle began to feel better. I soon became regular and I got strong and shortly after I was married. Now I have two nice stout healthy children and am able to work hard every day."—Mrs. CLEMENTINA DUBBERG, 34 Gardner St., Troy Hill, Pittsburg, Penn.

All women are invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special advice,—it will be confidential.

ELKS' CARNIVAL MAKES BIG HIT WITH SANTA ANA PUBLIC

Grounds Swarm With Happy
People Out For Evening
Of Real Joy

ARE WELL PATRONIZED

Country Grocery Store Handled By Local Men A Good Money-Maker

Score another success for the Elks
—and the Foley & Burke shows.

That portion of Santa Ana's population that didn't visit amusement square last night—the opening night of the Elks carnival—stayed at home because of circumstances over which they had no control, and that portion was a very small percentage of the total.

Grounds Crowded

The carnival grounds were crowded from early evening until the "last dog was hung." It was a good natured lunch of people out to help the local order of good fellows swell its charity fund. A spirit of jollity prevailed, with barker for the various shows,
the merry-go-round organ and noise
producing devices adding to the general din that aroused the desire of the visitors to see "everything going."
And that's just what they did.

Elks Arrive

It was about 8 o'clock when the Elks marched into the carnival grounds headed by the Elks band. It was the signal for a general outburst of enthusiastic applause for the "Jolly Bills" who will dispense the receipts of the carnival among the deserving poor of the city in its well known charity work.

Kangaroo Court

When the procession disbanded the band mounted the stand and rendered two or three selections, during which time the "rustlers" of the police squad of the Kangaroo court got busy and grabbed offending Elks right and left.
Joe Tavis was the chief of police and his deputies were Doc Gerhardt, Cy Eaton, Bob Collins and Jack Cope.
The five stalwart(?) minions of Kangaroo law were good bouncers and handled their victims in true bouncer style. Some of the big "fat guys" had to be carried before His Honor bodily,
where fines were imposed, the amount ranging from 25c to $1 according to the seriousness of the offense with which the prisoner was charged. Justice of the Peace Geopier of Balboa was the presiding judge. Al Dresser was clerk of the court.

A Real Money-Maker

One of the biggest clean-money makers for the Elks in the row of chance concessions was that of the Country Store. This is a lodge enterprise, conducted by members of the lodge. And it developed the fact that some of the local boys are "some barkers." Baskets of groceries were the prizes, with a chance on a big fine turkey gobler going with each basket. E. V. S. Pomeroy was the chairman of the committee having this in charge, and the boys who yelled themselves hoarse and passed out tickets at 10 cents per until their arms assumed an almost permanent extended position, were Messrs. Titch-enal, Schissler, Bremen and Majors.

When time for counting the cash came the cash box showed $109.75 had been gathered in.

All the chance concessions did a good business.

The Shows

Foley & Burke have not disappointed the people of this city in the character of shows they have brought here
for the entertainment and enlightenment of those who visit the carnival.
These amusement caterers have been doing business in this and other cities of the county for a number of years
and have won a deserved reputation of providing shows which are educational and entertaining. Every show on the pike is clean and high grade in character.

Trixie and the performing ponies
are at once pleasing and entertaining
to old and young alike. This is a particularly strong feature with the children—for where is there a child who does not admire and enjoy the performances of educated ponies or horses? Trixie is one of the most intelligent animals performing for the public today. Picking out colors of hats or clothes worn by someone in the audience, selecting numbers indicating the number of days in a week,
and adding figures are among the many things which this educated animal does.

The Newly Weds and Snookums
The Newlyweds and Snookums are an interesting little family and are entertainers who are worth seeing.
The parents give exhibitions in dancing, and despite the fact that they do their dancing on a carpet placed on an uneven dirt floor, they are graceful and their steps correct. During the exposition at San Francisco, they were selected from among the many entertainers there to give an exhibition for all the dignitaries who visited the big fair, among whom were former Presidents Taft and Roosevelt. Snookums is so-m-e baby, and was 2 years old the 25th of last month. He won the medal for the best boy baby under 22 months exhibited at the baby show at the San Francisco exhibition.

Monkey and Dog Hotel

Cecil Wright, a former Santa Ana boy, is the speller at this show, and he will tell you it is the greatest little show on earth for the little folks, to say nothing about it being a place where mamma and papa also find pleasing entertainment. Monkeys and dogs operate the hotel and their stunts are interesting and mirth-provoking.

The Tall Man

McGregor, the tall man, is sure some giant. A six-footer looks like a pigmy when standing by his side. He is 8 feet and one-half inches high, weighs 427 pounds and wears a 22 collar.

Siamese Twins

Two little girls grown together, and for whose present condition the war is held more or less responsible, and called the Siamese Twins. They are a freak of nature, a flesh bond of fourteen inches in circumference holding them together. They are three and one-half years old and are bright, active children, enjoying the best of health. It is the opinion of surgeons that they are only grown together by the abdominal wall, of the stomach and that there are no internal or vital parts grown from one stomach to the other. One can go to sleep, the other remain awake; one laughs at the other crying; one may be sick, the other well.

The Wonderland

If you would see yourself as Darwin
would have you, you want to see Sam and Casey at the Wonderland. These human-being animals are a wonder—and yet not such as the average person would care to trace his ancestry from.

Pilgrim, the handless and legless man, is a most interesting person. He is a swell penman, writing with as much ease by using the stubs of his arms as the expert who has the full use of his hands. He rolls cigarettes, eats with a fork and does other stunts
that would seem impossible of accomplishment by one handicapped as he is.

The boa constrictor—the big, ugly-looking black snake—is some pig eater. During only three months of the year does it care for anything to eat. During that period it takes from three to fourteen small pigs to satiate its hunger. Today it might eat fourteen pigs, tomorrow it might eat
three, or it might be three weeks before it will eat again. The reptile is twenty-eight feet long.

These three big features are under one tent, and is one of the shows which no one passes up.

"Have you seen Stella?" Stella and her company—you want to see both.
Stella's company is composed of a number of snakes, and if you will just listen she will tell you more about these serpents than you ever read about them.

The Submarine

The U-Z submarine on the pike is not as destructible as the German U-53, although many women and children scream just as loud as do some passengers on boats attacked by the submarines in warfare. The sensation is such as at first to make you wish you were at home, and then, after the scare, to wish that the action of this particular submersible would continue for an indefinite period. It is all to the good.

GARDEN GROVE MAKES RECORD GROWING BEANS

Rancher With Irrigation Produces Thirty-three Bags
To the Acre

GARDEN GROVE, Oct. 11.—Garden Grove is a real bean producing section. In previous seasons many ranchers yielded over thirty bags per acre under irrigation. This season
there are even better crops than heretofore.
W. L. Salisbury and W. L.
Russell report a yield of thirty-three bags per acre under irrigation.

Gardn Grove also has a record for dry farming. One piece recorded twenty-five bags per acre.

With the present prices of beans
this land practically yielded $125 per acre.

A Japanese chili grower reports having taken $2000 as the proceeds of green chiles sold from a ten-acre tract of land. He says further that ten tons of dry chili pods from the same piece, all in one section, will be harvested.

Adding these two items together gives the Japanese $400 per acre from a ten-acre tract.

AGED FARMER

Made Strong and Well By Vinol
—The following letter from farmer Lester adds another link to the great chain of evidence which proves that there is nothing equal to Vinol to create strength for feeble, weak, rundown conditions and after sickness.

Vestal Centre, N. Y.—"I am a farmer 74 years of age and got into a weak, run-down condition as a result of the gripe. Our druggist suggested Vinol to build me up and I noticed an improvement soon after taking it, and it has restored my strength so I can now do a good day's work. My wife has also taken Vinol for a run-down condition with splendid results."—H.

JOE MANDOT QUILTS RING TO TAKE UP
REAL ESTATE GAME

CHICAGO—Joe Mandot, the French baker boy from New Orleans, has quit the boxing game. This is final,
according to his manager, Tom Walsh.
The latter got word from the lightweight veteran and he is through battling for hence and will go into the real estate business.

Walsh hated to hear this, as he thinks Mandot has plenty of good fights left in him. But as Joe refuses to take the game seriously any more, Walsh realizes that the best thing to do is to permit him to retire.

THIS COUNTRY IS NOT AT PEACE. DECLARES CRAGO

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 11.—"In appealing to the people to return the Republican party to power we have confidence that the record of incompetency of the present administration will make impossible its continuance," declared Representative Thomas S.
Crago, of Pennsylvania, in a statement given out here today by the National Congressional Committee.

"One year and five months of Democratic rule found the country with industries paralyzed, the treasury almost bankrupt, our rights over the Panama Canal surrendered, wages reduced, the cost of living increased and our army landed on Mexican soil without excuse or justification," continued Representative Crago, who is past commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

"Then the war with Europe. The so-called war tax appears, industry revives because of war orders, high sounding diplomatic notes are written,
the cry goes up, 'The President has kept us out of war,' when in fact every move he made weakened us in the estimation of other nations, for we committed acts of war against a weaker nation, Mexico, and begged a servile truce with nations we knew were stronger."

"The public recalls the fiasco of Vera Cruz and President Wilson's unpardonable act in lifting the embargo
on arms that our soldiers should meet death from guns furnished to assassins by permission of our own government. In this so-called 'peace' more lives have been lost and more money spent than we sacrificed in the war with Spain. If we are at 'peace' should more than a hundred thousand
of our boys be paying the price of war,
taken from home and families, to play
a game of peace? If we have been kept from war by any magic of the President, then now does it happen
that Spain, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland, Holland and Denmark, countries
much nearer the European conflict
than we are, have been able to maintain peace?"

"With a great flourish of trumpets
the Democrats assumed control, and their record is a dismal recital of broken promises and unfulfilled pledges. The issues of this campaign are:

First, tariff revision by the friends
of a protective tariff, and no twelfth hour conversion to the idea of a tariff board can fool the people.

"Second, an Americanism which would put the United States not only first among other nations, but would protect us from forces within which would destroy the foundation of justice on which our government is founded.

"Third, a readjustment of the fiscal affairs of the government to the end
that the people, who pay the bills, shall have some say as to the amount and methods of expenditures."

SPECULATIVE PROFITS

The story of fortunes garnered by the present bull market on Wall Street makes hum drum life seem tame. Even the small speculator is sometimes permitted to gather in quite luscious crumbs. In all times of speculative fever, there are stories of office boys and bell hops who have walked off with a few cool thousands.

What becomes of these speculative windfalls? Are they salted away in some secure bank? It seems very unlikely. What usually happens is that the freshman speculator acquires an inflated sense of his own business powers.

He may be located many miles from any speculative center. But after reading the newspaper financial report, he thinks that with all his inexperience and remote from the market, he can detect business currents hidden from the brightest minds in the business, or perhaps he has a tip from some mysterious source. Informed that some noted speculator is about to promote a bull campaign in a certain stock, he is ready to gamble again.

After making one killing, the amateur usually risks the entire amount he has gained. Quite likely he draws out more savings so as not to neglect the golden door of opportunity.

In stock market speculation everything favors the insiders. They are close to each other. Some one always knows when a certain stock is going to advance its dividend. The people who know that fact give out no tips. They keep it to themselves, or rather they are more likely to give out tips that the stock is likely to pass its dividends. This encourages the small speculator to sell short and the insiders can buy dirt cheap and get the public both going and coming.

The little speculator is swept far out to sea with the great tide, of whose reach and sweep he had no conception. It is a good game to let alone.

With Malice Toward None

By Henry James

Science and the Brute
An illustrated two-page article recently printed shows the great things that science is doing for the lower orders of creation, or rather, is doing to them. One highbrow constructed a maze, similar in principle to that which tempts the yokel at the Coney Island style of resort and from which visitors emerge rocking with laughter. Into this maze he turned a rat. The rat found its way out, and being put in again and again, learned to follow the devious passage quicker. Wonderful! Until now humanity had lacked definite information as to how a rat would act in a maze.

Another has ascertained that animals are caused discomfort by heat and cold, but that cold causes them more rapidly. Wonderful again.

The difference between these highbrows and the boys who tie tin cans to the canine tail, is that the boys get lambasted if they are caught at their tricks.

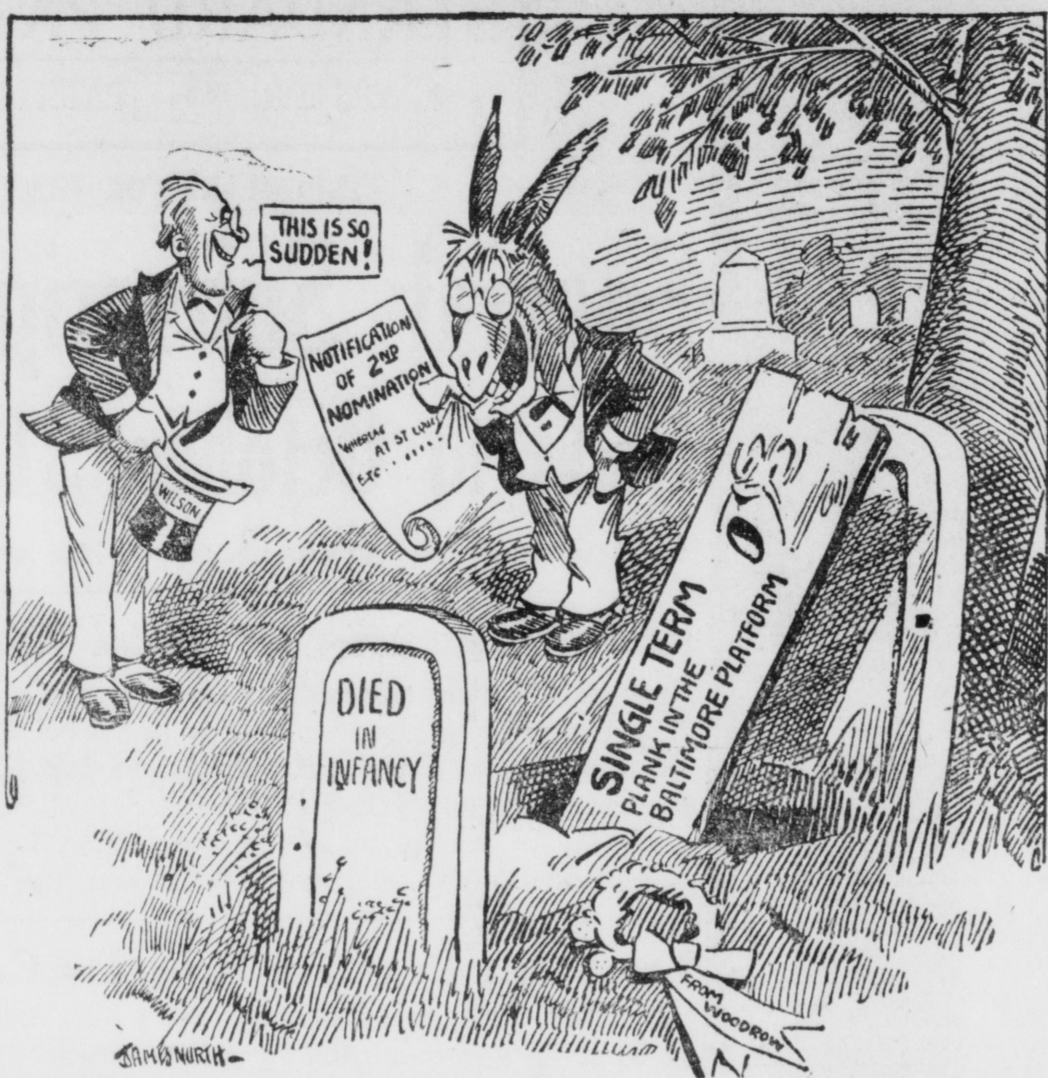

Stage Jewels
It is said that a film actress wears $75,000 worth of diamonds in a certain scene.

Perhaps this is the valuation in the sort of money received by the movie star whose salary is $670,000 a year.

Imaginary Pangs
Hunger, according to an investigator, is a mental process occasioned by the memory of good things gone before.

Then why does the baby howl for sustenance? And how much a truly

Yes, It Is Rather Sudden

NORTH, Tacoma News Ledger.

forgetful person would be able to save on his board bill! He never would think of food.

Acquiring a Competency

An editor whose opinion is worthy of great respect says that the only sure way for the wage-earner to acquire a competency is to save money. He might have added, but his kind heart prevented, that even this sure way is a dream.

In the first place there is no assurance that the man who works for hire today will have a job tomorrow, the matter resting largely upon the whim or the business success of his employer.

In addition to this, if his pay is regular, the present cost of living, provided he has a family, will more than consume it all. However, the theory is pleasing, and the advice to the humble not to buy limousines ought to be heeded.

Stealing Nothing

A young man of Los Angeles desiring to enter Harvard, with an ultimate view to entering the ministry, stole a ride across the continent.

Nobody lost anything through this theft. Not a particle of difference was made in the receipts of any of the carrier companies.

Is it impossible to commit larceny by stealing nothing?

The Bremen's Load

One report concerning the Bremen is that in its cargo was or is diamonds to the amount of $2,000,000.

If they are lost the blow will be a bitter one. Just when bakers are trying to exact a dime for a five-cent loaf, too. Somebody always is playing hob with the necessities of life.

Easy Marks

Americans have submitted to many impositions due to the war. That is to say, they have permitted the whole mess of belligerents to place upon the rights and standing of this country an estimate of thirty cents, and get away with it.

Where they really show that they are a lot of easy marks, however, is in permitting native hogswins to root into their purses without an effort on their part to ring the swinish snout.

Almost everything that people eat, wear, or use in the ordinary processes of living has been arbitrarily advanced in price.

In instances doubtless the war has given real excuse for this. In a great majority of cases the advanced prices represent the unrestrained spirit of pillage.

Considerate gentlemen, who have the running of things, make living so expensive that the bills cannot be met by the average income, and then marvel greatly in their small souls to hear murmurs of dissatisfaction.

This never will be a happy land when there is a business roguesy permitted to put a $12 tag on a $2 article, and tell the outraged customer to blame it on the war.

Americans can't settle the war, but they ought to be able to settle the hash of the domestic bandit.

Warned

Sir Rabindranath Tagore, now honoring this country by a visit, wears abundant whiskers. He might as well be prepared to be lampooned by a lot of sterile jowled gentry who entertain the belief that they are harmless wonders instead of scraped hams.

CALIFORNIA MAY GET NEW $11,000,000 PLANT

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—The possibility that the United States Government may construct in California the $11,000,000 nitrate plant for extracting nitrate from the atmosphere, for which Congress recently passed an appropriation, was seen in the presence here of Hoyt S. Gale of the United States Geological Survey. Gale is registered at the Stewart from Washington, D. C.

He is here, he said, on a political mission to investigate nitrate and potash problems on which the Government has been working since the beginning of the European war.

CRASH; NONE HURT

BEAUMONT, Oct. 11.—Meeting in the dark at the top of a hill in the San Timoteo Canyon, at a point twelve miles west of Beaumont, a large touring car driven by R. E. LeBeau, local manager for the Southern California Edison Company, and a motor truck belonging to the T. C. Creamery of Redlands, crashed together Monday night. Although three of the occupants of the touring car were thrown into the road by the impact, none was seriously injured.

CLEWS IN ROBBERY AT ANAHEIM ARE SCARCE

Sheriff Jackson spent this morning at Anaheim in connection with investigations concerning the robbery of the Langenberger residence Sunday night, at which time $3000 worth of diamonds and jewelry were stolen. The sheriff states that clews are scarce than hen's teeth, and prospects for catching the men who were in the robbery are far from encouraging.

DEEDS VERSUS TALK

In the fall of 1915 proposed women's suffrage amendments to the Constitution of New York and New Jersey were submitted to the voters of those states.

President Wilson made a special trip from Washington to Princeton to register and another trip to vote for Votes for Women.

The records of the Board of Elections of New York County fail to disclose that Mr. Hughes either registered or voted on this occasion.

Furthermore the records show that since 1910 Mr. Hughes has neglected to exercise at all the right of suffrage—the highest duty of a citizen.

The woman suffrage plank of the Democratic Platform is as follows: "We recommend the extension of the franchise to the women of the country by the States upon the same terms as to men."

The suffrage clause of the Republican Platform declares: "The Republican Party favors the extension of the suffrage to women, but recognizes the right of each State to settle this question for itself."

Candidate Hughes has made a bid for the women's votes by a declaration not endorsed by his party or his platform, and which his own conduct indicates is not sincere.

ORGANIZATION FORMED TO FIGHT AMENDMENT

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 11.—Several business and commercial organizations of Los Angeles and several like organizations of other Southern California cities met yesterday noon at the Clark to perfect plans for a campaign against the "Land Taxation" amendment on the ballot of the forthcoming general election. The meeting was the outcome of a smaller meeting held at the same hotel a week ago, at which a committee of organization was formed and other preliminary steps taken. The result of the two meetings was the formation of a fighting organization to be known as the People's Anti-Single Tax League.

STEAMER IS LOST

CORDOVA, Alaska, Oct. 11.—The steamer Independent, owned by the National Independent Fisheries Company of Seattle, and engaged in halibut fishing, struck a reef off Middleton Island, fifty miles south of Cordova, and sank yesterday. A heavy sea was running. The crew of thirty-eight escaped in dories. The vessel was valued at $50,000. The Independent was a wooden vessel of 253 gross tons, 125 feet long, built in Tacoma in 1911.

MAKING FIGHT FOR REPUBLICAN TICKET FROM TOP TO BOTTOM

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—The Republican county and state committeemen are rapidly reporting to the State Republican Central Committee and arranging with Secretary Sylvester J. McAtee the plans for a whirlwind campaign for Hughes, Fairbanks and Johnson, as well as the entire congressional and legislative ticket. McAtee expects that, in a few days, he will have perfected the machinery whereby the entire state will be effectively organized for the fight.

CRUZ FINDS GOOD CLOTHES HARD TO KEEP AT HOME

Mexican Good Dresser of Delhi Has Togs Stolen Fast As He Can Buy Them

Joe Cruz of Delhi is not a flashy dresser, but he usually wears good clothes. Someone who also likes to wear good clothes and who doesn't have the taste or money with which to buy them, keeps Cruz guessing on his wardrobe—that is Joe is never certain that he will find his good clothes when he wants them.

Some weeks ago a light fingered, envious gent broke into Cruz's home and purloined a suit of perfectly good "duds" and a perfectly good pistol.

Last night this "some one," presumably, broke into the Cruz home and stole Joe's shirts and neckties. Fortunately Joe was in town attending the carnival and wore his best suit of clothes, else they might have come up missing. The individual responsible for last night's robbery must have had a key to one of the doors, for every door in the house was locked when he returned home.

TAKE CENSUS, HOPING FOR AN ELKS LODGE

ANAHEIM, Oct. 11.—Marion Eden has completed the census of the northeast part of town and reported it to be 1,134. Eden stated that the census would no doubt run over the 5,000 mark. It is being handled carefully and every house is listed with the names of the residents so that it will be an accurate list of names. The census is being taken under the direction of the city for the local Elks with the intention of establishing an Elks' lodge if the population is over 5,000. This is felt to be certain and the local Elks are planning for the lodge in the near future.

FOR AUGUST POOL

ANAHEIM, Oct. 11.—The Anaheim Fruit Association has just mailed checks for the August pool of oranges amounting to $85,000.

The local association has handled much fertilizer and seeds for cover crops for the members and each year is increasing the tonnage. Rain has done no damage to the orange growers but has washed the trees and in other ways is a benefit.

'HONEST WEIGHT AND MEASURE WEEK' IS SET FOR OCT. 22

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 11.—The State Dept. of Weights and Measures, in co-operation with all county departments, is preparing to inaugurate an "Honest Weights and Measure Week," beginning Sunday, October 22. Charles G. Johnson, the state superintendent, has appealed to the clergy throughout the state to make "Honest Weights and Measures" the subject of their sermons on October 22.

During the week all weights and measure officials will lecture in the schools throughout the state on weights and measures, and will demonstrate their commercial employment. All Merchants' Associations, Chambers of Commerce and merchants in the state will be enlisted in the campaign for honest weights and measures.

"The success of honest and legitimate trade demands accurate weights and measures and the honest employment of correct weighing apparatus," says Superintendent Johnson.

"The purchasing public, which is chiefly concerned, should seriously interest itself in honest weights and measures. More commercial misconduct in weights and measures is due to carelessness and ignorance than to any other cause. Honest merchants invite your concern and co-operation; there should be no others.

"To be honest for policy's sake is an old and worn out adage. Honesty in trade should be a principle, not a policy."

WARRANT IS ISSUED FOR DRIVER OF AUTO

W. A. Mefford has sworn to a complaint charging W. E. Alexander of Long Beach with reckless driving. Mrs. Mefford had one ankle badly hurt. The buggy was wrecked. Mefford stated that the automobile was driven by a man who had one arm in a sling.

ORANGE COUNTY G. A. R. MEN MEET FOR ANNUAL

At the annual meeting of the Orange County Veterans' Association held in the G. A. R. hall, a banquet laid by the members of three ladies' organizations was served to over 200 guests.

Commander Talcott opened the business session at 10:30 a. m. and appointed the nominating committee, to make up the slate for the annual election of officers. The incoming officers were then chosen and are listed as follows, to serve for the ensuing twelve months:

Commander, C. C. Stoner; first vice president, Mrs. W. R. Garret, of Orange; second vice president, Mrs. Lenora Ward, Santa Ana; chaplain, A. B. Markie, Anaheim; secretary-treasurer, A. B. Paul, Santa Ana.

The next meeting place for the association's annual will be Orange. Senior Vice Commander C. S. Haskins, of Los Angeles, was present at the meeting, and delivered an address on the National Encampment of Civil War Veterans, which he had recently attended.

Tom Hull, Vice Commander of the Southern California Veterans' Association, was among the visitors from out of town.

The dinner served, was set by the ladies of the W. R. C., the Daughters of Veterans, and the women members of the O. C. V. A.

Among the fifty visiting members from outside cities, was Robert Cumings, who is a charter member of the Orange County Club.

After the meeting was adjourned, the drummer and the fife took places on the corner of Fourth street near the hall, and began to play some of the martial music that characterizes the G. A. R. music. A crowd had gathered in less than two minutes, and these aged protectors of the Stars and Stripes entertained the eager throng for many minutes with the music of the marches.

OFFICE BURGLARIZED

FULLERTON, Oct. 11.—With either a pass key or a pair of delicate pliers to turn the key in the door, a lone burglar broke into the office of the Fullerton Lumber Company Monday night, rifled the cash drawer and escaped with $1 in small change. An effort was made to break into the safe, which was unlocked when the office was closed for the night, but the burglar, through clumsy work, locked instead of opened it.

NOTED ENGLISH BISHOP HERE ATTENDING SESSION

(By United Press)

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 11.—Among the most prominent churchmen here today for the epoch making general convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church is the Right Reverend Huyshe Wolcott Yatman-Biggs, Lord Bishop of Worcester (England). He is here as the representative of the Church of England. The Bishop has two sons at the front, one commanding an armored motor car lent the Russian government by Great Britain.

Other famous dignitaries of the church from all over the United States and some from Canada are on hand. Many prominent laymen are also attending.

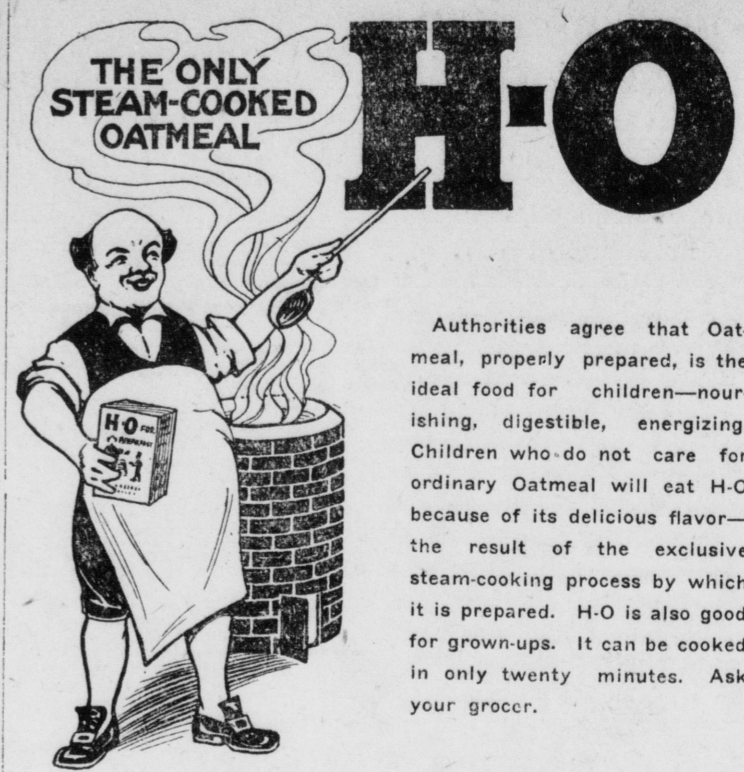

The committee which is to recommend divorce laws more strict than the present to the convention is composed of five bishops, five priests and five laymen. The report will say: "Divorce is increasing by leaps and bounds and it is becoming increasingly difficult to determine the innocence of either party to a divorce."

Children who do not care for ordinary Oatmeal will eat H-O because of its delicious flavor—the result of the exclusive steam-cooking process by which it is prepared. H-O is also good for grown-ups. It can be cooked in only twenty minutes. Ask your grocer.
